German Leader In U.S.

Adenauer Says U.S. Saved Europe

WASHINGTON (INS)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany declared Wednesday night "the United States has saved Europe from ruin and breakdown."

He made his positive declaration at a formal dinner at which the host, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said that the objectives of the successful London and Paris conferences were "nothing less than the salvation of Western civilization itself."

The statements on the framework of European unity were made at a white tie dinner at Anderson House, where Dulles invited the greatest concentration of dignitaries of the Washington season to honor Adenauer who had arrived from Germany only four hours earlier.

Dulles, in proposing a toast to the German Chancellor, exuded confidence that the Western world finally is on the road to security and peace.

Dulles gave Adenauer a tremendous accolade when he called him "one of the outstanding statesmen of our time and indeed, I think it can be said, of all times."

'Great Richness'
He said that the West has gone through an experience of "great richness and value" during the recent "dramatic days" and came out with a solution.

Then he commented: "It was not so much just what was done but that the times produced the men to do it."

He added that "from France, England and Germany, there arose men who were able to see what had to be done and who were able to put first things first."

"There were great goals—nothing less than the salvation of Western civilization itself."

One of Hope
Dulles said there was credit for all who participated in the London and Paris meetings but "the contributions of the German Chancellor were outstanding."

He noted that through the accomplishments of the London and Paris conferences, "a very black vista was changed to one of hope."

Upon his arrival earlier, Adenauer expressed gratitude to the U. S. for its aid in restoring German sovereignty and pledged "continual, cordial friendship with the American people."

Farm Wives Send Ezra An 'Egg-Sit'

Three Nebraska farm wives sent Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson a real "egg sit" Wednesday—5,193 eggs.

The eggs, they explain, if sold at current market prices, would bring Benson enough cash for a one-way coach ticket to his home town, Salt Lake City.

The women said that the same trip from Washington, D.C., to Salt Lake City would have cost 2,504 eggs on election day of 1952. The 5,193 eggs came to 14 cases, 12 dozen and 9 eggs and at farm run prices they would bring $69.56, the women said.

Mrs. Peterson said she was "discouraged and dissatisfied" with the price of eggs. The three, Mrs. Peterson said, decided to send the eggs to show their dissatisfaction. "We just thought it would be a good idea and we just decided to try it," she said.

Mrs. Peterson said she has 300 hens, and depends on them for part of their income. (AP Wirephoto.)

Flying Campaign Push Aimed At Winning Control Of Congress

By ED CREACH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Wednesday night decided to make an eleventh-hour, flying campaign foray aimed at stirring voters out of what he called apathy and winning a Republican victory in next Tuesday's contest for control of Congress.

The White House announced that he would fly on Friday to Cleveland, Detroit, Louisville, Ky., and Wilmington, Del., addressing airport crowds at each of the cities. He will leave here early Friday morning and return Friday night.

The cities will be visited in the order named, but the exact time of the President's arrival will not be announced until Thursday.

However, Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) said at Detroit that the President would reach there about noon.

Each of the four states the President will visit has a Senate race that could hold the key to control of the next Senate. Two of them, Ohio and Michigan, also elect governors. A total of 50 House seats are at stake in the four states.

Hot Battle In Ohio
In Ohio Rep. George H. Bender (R) is in a hot battle with Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D) for the remainder of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's term. In Michigan's Senate contest, Sen. Ferguson, Republican Policy Committee chairman in the Senate, is being pushed by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

Kentucky features a battle of stalwarts with most observers giving former Vice President Alben W. Barkley (D) the edge to beat Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R).

In little Delaware, Sen. J. Allen Frear (D) is challenged by Rep. Herbert B. Warburton (R).

At his news conference Wednesday, Eisenhower expressed himself as somewhat puzzled over what he called voter apathy. With a flash of anger, he rejected any idea that "disenchantment" with his administration is responsible. On the contrary, he said, his advisers tell him one cause is too much satisfaction—the people have got what they wanted under the GOP.

Committee To Pay For It
White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President's trip Friday would be made in the presidential plane, the Columbine, but that the Republican National Committee would pay for all expenses connected with it.

Eisenhower spoke out on politics and a number of other topics at his first news conference here since mid-August.

He smilingly declined to predict the election's outcome, but said he certainly can hope for a Congress that will help him carry out his program in the next few years.

Other speakers at the first session include Donald Kline, NSEA executive secretary; Dr. C. E. Erickson, dean of the Michigan State College School of Education; and Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman who was imprisoned for about two years by the Hungarian government.

The Rev. Thomas C. Dick, pastor of the First-Plymouth Congregational Church, will give the invocation. The Northeast High School orchestra, under the direction of David Fowler, will present a program of music.

The University of Nebraska Singers and Symphony Orchestra will appear in concert as a courtesy program for the teachers Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Speakers at Friday's general session, opening at 9 a.m. at the Coliseum, will be Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, head of the Philippine Island delegation to the United Nations and former UN president, and Dr. Francis W. Humann to Preside
E. D. Humann, NSEA District I president, will preside at the general sessions.

On Friday, the annual business session will be held and officers elected. Presidential candidates for District I are Paul Baker, principal of the Beatrice Junior High School, and Arnold J. Edmiston, Harvard superintendent of schools.

Other nominees include Charles Brown of York and M. R. Penney of Crete, vice president; Don MacLay of Fairbury and Irma Warta of the University of Nebraska, secretary; Ilah Couch of Exeter and Cecil Walker of Seward, treasurer; and Harold Reed of Hebron and Josephine Grosvenor of Aurora, district executive committee member.

In addition to the general sessions, the teachers also will split up to attend divisional and sectional meetings.

'Power of Schools' Told
At a pre-convention dinner Wednesday night, about 300 teachers heard Mrs. George Davis, using herself as a graphic example, describe the power of the public school system.

Now the Sunday School field representative for the Assemblies of God, Mrs. Davis told of her experiences as the child of vagabond parents.

"We traveled from place to place and I sold reed baskets my father made, filled with paper flowers fashioned by my mother."

The changing point of her life came when she realized it was possible to gain a free education.

When she graduated from Bakersfield, Calif., High School, she was the class valedictorian and member of the debate team.

While in high school, teachers took an interest in her, and "for the first time in my life, I learned what it was like to use silverware and dishes," Mrs. Davis said.

Mrs. Davis, from Bettendorf, Ia., has had her life story printed in The Saturday Evening Post and Readers' Digest.

Russia And West Agree

Closed-Door Consultation Gets U.N. Committee's Go-Ahead

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U. N. Political Committee, happy over rare agreement between the West and Russia, unanimously approved Wednesday a resolution calling for secret five-power talks on disarmament problems.

The vote came at the end of more than two weeks of general debate. The resolution was sponsored by the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union. It was the first time since 1946 that the West and Russia had agreed unanimously to sponsor a resolution.

The action means that the General Assembly certainly will approve the resolution and the Disarmament Commission will send to a sub-committee made up of these five powers all projects for disarmament now pending in the U.N.

Amidst the obvious pleasure of the delegates that the Soviet Union and the West had taken this procedural step together, there were warnings that the East and West still are divided on fundamental points and there is no reason to expect rapid progress.

Will Study India's Plan
The committee then voted, 53-1, to send to the Disarmament Commission a proposal by India for a standstill agreement on the production of arms pending conclusion of a disarmament convention.

The one vote was by Nationalist China.

This vote made it certain that the proposals of India's Prime Minister Nehru for a halt in the arms race would be considered by the commission's subcommittee. They were made last spring but the Indians charged they were put in a deep freeze and never considered.

The committee then decided, 24-23, to send to the Disarmament Commission a proposal by Australia and the Philippines for the secretariat to draw up a paper showing the points of East and West agreement and disagreement on disarmament.

Vishinsky Balks
Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky fought that proposal on the grounds that Russia would not be satisfied for anyone else to state her position. He said it would be beneath the dignity of the Soviet Union to have this done. Jules Moch, France, also objected.

Sir Percy Spender, Australia, argued that the small countries had a right to know how matters stood and said it was about time the small countries were told about them. He lost his fight, however.

Fair And Warmer To Follow Frost

Fair skies and maximum temperatures in the upper 50s make up Nebraska's weather outlook for Thursday.

The forecast indicated the southeastern part of the state could expect frost early Thursday, elsewhere a warming up trend was indicated.

If the frost in Lincoln is a killing frost it will be the longest Lincoln has gone without a killing frost since 1940. The record was set then with frost held off until Nov. 10. The weather bureau says that since 1886 there have been only 10 years when a killing frost (32 degrees) held off until Oct. 27 or later.

The Weather Bureau said partly cloudy and cold conditions would prevail Thursday night, with snow flurries likely in the northeast.

Peace Hopes Brighter, President Says

Immediate Russian Meeting Ruled Out

Ike Indicates He Sees An End—Sometime—To Long Fight Between East, West

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday that there is better reason to hope for peace now than there was two years ago, but he ruled out any immediate Big Four meeting to seek agreement with the Russians on great world issues.

The fact is, the President told a news conference, that this is not the time to project or hold a meeting with the Soviets while work is still in progress on completing the European defense structure by adding West German units.

But he said the West is strengthening its bargaining position, and indicated that he sees the possibility of an end—sometime—to the long road of the East-West conflict. He suggested that the Western powers must always be on the lookout for some lessening of what he called intractability on the part of the Reds and, finally, for a chance for negotiation.

Sincerity Wanted

As for talking with the Communists, he said, whenever the time is appropriate and there is reason to believe they are sincere, this country will talk any time with anyone who wants sincerely to promote peace.

In a news conference devoted mostly to politics, foreign problems kept popping up in questions and, aside from laying down his general and hopeful attitude on the present state of world affairs, Eisenhower made these other points:

1. Basic U.S. foreign policy must be bipartisan or nonpartisan. The operation of this basic policy, however, requires that a certain set of leaders in the government take responsibility and therefore to this extent the matter may become political and controversial.

Foreign Policy Issue

2. Foreign policy as an issue has entered into the recent campaign but as to whether it would be basically affected by the outcome of the congressional elections the President said that so far as he knew every political leader on both sides had expressed substantially the same view about basic American foreign interests.

3. The President is delighted to have coming here as visitors German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Prime Minister Yoshida of Japan, Premier Mendes-France of France and Queen Mother Elizabeth of England. Evidently referring to Adenauer and the Queen Mother, he said that two of the four are old and good friends. He went on to praise Adenauer, arriving today, as one of the great statesmen of this time and a man animated by good sense, devoted to the well-being of his people and to world peace.

4. He may send some nominations and treaties to the special Senate session to be held immediately after the congressional elections. He said he thought there would be some things that can be taken care of. Some consideration has been given, it was learned elsewhere, to submitting the Southeast Asian treaty signed in September, and pending agreements on German rearmament, for study by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee with a view to early action at the session convening in January.

Not The Time

The foreign policy discussion at the news conference began with a question on whether the President thought the time was appropriate for a meeting with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

The President said he believed that this was not the time to project or hold a four-power meeting, while discussions on the European defense system are in progress.

Under questioning, the President reasserted his belief that those whom he called the fanatic pursuers of communism have not changed their views.

Growing Realization

But he said there has been evidence of a growing realization in the free world of the great importance of the basic issues on which we are united—issues like freedom and the necessity of hanging together.

Eisenhower then mentioned settlement of the Iranian oil crisis, Anglo-Egyptian agreement on the Suez, Korean and Indochina peace, the Southeast Asian treaty signed in September and last week's Paris agreements on rearming Germany in NATO and a new Western European Union as evidence of growing strength among the free nations.

The President said he believed that is the channel—development of growing strength—that the United States and its allies must pursue. At the same time, he said, they must explore all opportunities to see whether there is some diminution of intractability on the other side and, finally, a chance for negotiation.

Peaceful A-Uses Vital

In this connection Eisenhower stressed as of great importance his program for developing peaceful uses of atomic energy over the world with or without the co-operation of the Soviet Union.

He also tied into this basic policy concept of peace through strength an essentially domestic consideration by emphasizing the relationship between strength inside the United States and strength in the Allied world. He said he believed "America's success over the last two years in the foreign field and at home in going from war to a peacetime economy without a real depression are . . . the great significant events of our time."

The President capped his statement of confidence in the effectiveness of Allied strength as a basis of possible negotiation with the Soviets by saying that he thought people had better reason today to hope for peace than they had two years ago because they have greater strength to bring about the ultimate result they seek.

Candidate Hits Lack Of Debate

Frank Morrison, Democratic candidate for Congress, said Wednesday night that the lack of interest in politics was because "the Republican candidates for Congress insist on playing on a different field than their opponents."

Contrasting the interest in sports and in politics, Morrison said, "There would be no interest in sports if the two teams played on different fields. The Republican candidates have refused to meet their Democratic opponents on the same field to decide the vital contest of the November elections."

Morrison listed as some of the issues "the Dixon-Yates contract, which establishes the precedent for turning all our power resources over to the private utility monopolies and the tide-lands oil deal which deprived the Nebraska school system of hundreds of millions of dollars, of needed revenue."

Morrison accused Republicans of "yelling and screaming about yesterday's ball game and spending all of their time cussing their opponents whom they refuse to meet instead of playing meaningful politics."

Labor Chief Blasted By AFL, CIO

'Dodged Facts' In Claims Of Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL and CIO leaders lashed out Wednesday at Secretary of Labor Mitchell's claim of national prosperity and accused him of dodging economic facts in trying to get workers to vote Republican.

Mitchell fired back in a Labor Department statement saying that when the job situation was considerably darker in early 1950 the labor leaders did not criticize the Democrats.

The Democratic national chairman, Stephen A. Mitchell, also got into the argument with a charge that President Eisenhower did not tell the whole story about employment and unemployment in his Monday night speech.

The Democratic leader said in a statement the President did not disclose that there were 4,000 fewer people working in October than in the preceding month. Mitchell said this shows the unemployment situation has continued to slip backward.

AFL President George Meany and Chairman Emil Rieve, of the CIO Economic Policy Committee put out separate statements saying, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, in a nationwide radio and television broadcast Tuesday night, stressed an October drop in unemployment but failed to mention that employment, too, had declined.

They also said the secretary neglected to say that the jobless number twice as many as a year ago. Meany said Mitchell presented "a rosy but inaccurate picture" of the job situation and Rieve spoke critically of "a sudden pre-election sympathy for the jobless."

Quick Action Saves Youth

... Near Omaha

From Press Dispatches
OMAHA—A 20-year-old Oakland, Neb., youth who has been working in Lincoln was reported in critical condition at an Omaha hospital Wednesday with a skull fracture and other injuries suffered in an auto-gasoline transport crash.

Richard Nelson, formerly a University of Nebraska student, suffered lacerations of the scalp and face in addition to the skull fracture. He lost a portion of his nose. The attending physician said plastic surgery could be performed to restore the lost portion.

A bakery truck driver's first aid was credited with saving Nelson from death or serious disfigurement after the accident early Wednesday.

The car in which Nelson was riding, driven by Clair E. Enstrom, 19, of Oakland, ran into the rear of a gasoline transport driven by Frederick C. Fuller, 37, of Beatrice. The mishap occurred about 14 miles west of Omaha on the Dodge Street Road.

Highway Patrolman Herbert Wallace said the bakery truck driver, Charles R. Averill, 33, of Omaha, was the first at the scene after the crash. Averill obtained handkerchiefs, undershirts and other clothing from other passers-by and held a nearly severed large flap of skin on Nelson's face until the victim could be taken to a hospital. Others found the severed part of Nelson's nose.

... 'Public Clamor' Brings Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—A voluntary code to take the horror, brutal crime and sex out of the nation's comic books has been signed by 26 publishers representing three-fourths of the industry's annual output, Judge Charles F. Murphy, the man who has been hired to police the code, announced Wednesday.

Murphy, 44-year-old New York City magistrate from 1944 until last month, told a news conference the code stems from "public clamor" that comic books be cleaned up. Recently a special Senate subcommittee hunted for possible links between juvenile delinquency and horror and crime comic books.

The code which Murphy wrote and will attempt to enforce includes the following, among a long list of outlawed portrayals:

In crime comics, no sympathy for the criminal and no "unique details" of a crime; law enforcement officers and institutions can not be treated so as to "create disrespect for established authority"; criminals must not be "glamorous" and good shall always triumph over evil; no details allowed on kidnapping incidents and the word "crime" can never be given special prominence on a book's cover.

The words "horror" and "terror" shall never appear on the cover and no scenes of "horror, excessive bloodshed, gory or gruesome crimes, depravity, lust, sadism, masochism" are allowed.

The ban includes "profanity, obscenity, smut, vulgarity," and "ridicule" of a religious or racial group, nudity in any form, "suggestive" postures and exaggerated sweater girls.

The code also extends to advertising matter. Code signers have agreed not to accept liquor ads, ads of sex instruction books, pin-up postcards or fireworks.

Ear To The Keyhole

When this was written, no decision had been reached on whether President Eisenhower in an eleven-hour appeal to the voters of half a dozen states where the congressional contests were said to be close should set forth on a political jaunt taking him into Kentucky, Illinois, Massachusetts, and possibly Delaware and Ohio.

It could be a lot of fun to sit in on the war councils or if that is impossible (which it is), to listen with bated breath with ear pressed against the keyhole.

A Washington correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, discussing the projected Eisenhower trip and insisting that the President's cabinet is dead opposed to it, has this to say: "Influential cabinet members, in their Denver pilgrimages, are advising the President not to stick his neck out. They are arguing that if the Democrats win after a direct presidential appeal, this defeat will be seized upon by the Republican old guard—as well as the Democrats—as a repudiation of President Eisenhower and his viewpoint. The Republican right wing will trumpet the claim that the experiment of grafting a liberal President onto GOP conservatism has failed, and that the formula hasn't worked, and that control of the party's direction should pass back to the old guard senators and representatives who nursed the party through the lean years of defeat."

How those boys—the President's cabinet advisers and the old guard members of Congress—love each other! Outwardly the people are told by the President to give him a Republican Congress to uphold his hands. Privately the President's cabinet tells him to go slow for in the event of defeat, the powerful old guard element of his own party will take out after him.

Shades Of Ft. Peck

Frank Morrison of McCook, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the first District, and Phil Weaver of Falls City, the Republican candidate, were asked by The Lincoln Star to express their views on these questions, among others presented to them:

"Do you favor private or public development of the nation's resources? Are you for or against the present administration's resources program?"

Mr. Morrison answered briefly in these words: "In general I feel that the natural resources of the country belong to the people and should be developed for the public good. I am against the present administration's program of giving away our resources to a special few and to big monopolies. The Dixon-Yates deal stinks. It is part of a pattern worse than Teapot Dome. . . ."

In a more elaborate answer, Mr. Weaver gets down to the heart of the matter in these words: "Private, if economically possible, and with restrictions to protect the public interest. If government financial help is needed, the people who specifically receive the benefits should then share a reasonable proportion of the costs and where the benefits are not specific to any particular group, then the federal government should assume the financial burden. . . . The only Eisenhower policy is to plan for a total, not a partial resource development program."

Apparently Mr. Weaver is not informed fully on phases of the Eisenhower program.

Equally obvious, it would seem, Mr. Weaver either has forgotten or does not agree with the position taken by his father, the late Gov. Arthur J. Weaver of Falls City, in the construction of Ft. Peck dam in Montana on the upper Missouri.

It was the late Gov. Weaver who led that fight for Ft. Peck in countless appearances before appropriation committees in Washington and in scores of speeches here in the Missouri Basin.

His plea for Ft. Peck was based upon the claim that its construction and the development of a navigation program would reduce by 12 cents a bushel the freight charges on every bushel of wheat produced in Nebraska and neighboring wheat-growing states. That was to reduce the freight charges of a very powerful segment of American economy, the railroads, a part of private enterprise. The railroads opposed it. They fought Ft. Peck across the mountains to the water's edge. But Ft. Peck was built, thanks to the efforts of the late Sen. George W. Norris and former Gov. Weaver, and it not only is contributing to flood control and irrigation in the upper basin, but it is a vital part in the resource development of the Missouri Basin. That long fight in the final essence rested upon the foundation that the resources developed in river basin improvement belonged to the people, and the people were entitled to its full benefits.

New AEC Member

President Eisenhower has chosen John Von Neumann, a professor at the Institute of Advanced Study in Princeton, N. J., to succeed Eugene M. Zuckert on the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Von Neumann is a distinguished mathematician and scientific theorist who made a heavy contribution to the development of the hydrogen bomb. He will be quite at home in discussions of the commission in all of its dealings in the nuclear field.

He may not be so well attuned to the administration's yardstick on security. Von Neumann, a teacher at the institute headed by Dr. Oppenheimer, was a witness in his friend's behalf when the latter was under the investigation that resulted in his dismissal from areas where nuclear secrets are critical. It will be remembered that Von Neumann said he had complete confidence in Oppenheimer's loyalty, discretion and integrity and added that if Oppenheimer had not been emotionally prepared for his job at the outset he later learned how to handle it very well.

The Oppenheimer case is apparently closed. But the appointment of Von Neumann reveals that the administration may feel that the Oppenheimer incident lacked something of being perfect justice and best wisdom.

Who's A Socialist?

The conservative speaking Republican Des Moines Register believes there are enough solid issues to be debated in the current campaign without resorting to "bloody shirt" tactics, and at week end it took that matter up within its own party.

Editorially, it said: "We are getting fed up with Vice President Nixon's extravagant talk about socialism which he claims the Republicans saved the country from."

Dismissing Nixon's recent charge that the Truman administration had prepared a "virtual blueprint for socialism including socialized medicine, agriculture, water and power and also atomic energy," the Register reminded him that the Eisenhower administration in Nixon's own words was feeling pretty proud of its own moves for the "biggest highway program in history, the greatest housing program and the greatest public works program," which sound pretty socialistic, too, by the Nixon definition.

Then as if to add a finishing, though disturbing touch to this "Who's the socialist," Andrew Vishinsky, Russian delegate to the United Nations solemnly announced that if he were an American, he'd be a Republican.

Mundt Runs Scared In South Dakota

WASHINGTON — South Dakota hasn't gone Democratic since most people around the Republican National Committee can remember, but today there's a certain amount of uneasiness regarding the future of the genial gentleman who tried—rather unsuccessfully—to keep order in the Army-McCarthy hearings—Sen. Karl Mundt.

The biggest problem bothering Karl—the Eisenhower farm program—isn't his fault. Two other problems could have been avoided. They are: 1, a cocktail party to have been held in the Senate; and 2, Karl's friendship with Joe McCarthy and Texas pals.

It so happens that candidate Eisenhower chose South Dakota to make his strongest promise to farmers in 1952. In South Dakota Ike went even further than he did at Kasson, Minn., and gave himself not one loophole in promising categorically and firmly 90 per cent price supports to farmers. So, with eggs now selling for eight to ten cents a dozen, farmers remember all too vividly Ike's categorical and eloquent promises.

Problem No. 2 involves a cocktail party to which Karl invited all members of the Army-McCarthy hearings just after their windup. It was to be held in the Senate caucus hearing room where it's against the rules to serve liquor. Karl, however, invited all Army-McCarthy participants anyway.

Then, when he heard the Democrats would boycott the party, he called it off.

However, the story got back to South Dakota and didn't sit too well with voters. So Karl did rather a foolish thing. He denied it.

Whereupon the Democrats trotted out a copy of the cocktail invitation. At the bottom were these giveaway words: "viands and vintages."

Problem No. 3 is Mundt's association with McCarthy and Texas friends, which quite a few people in South Dakota don't seem to like. Mrs. Mundt, of course, has long been a friend of the McCarthy's, and Karl himself once bought 200 shares of Texas Gulf sulphur stock on a McCarthy tip—that his Texas friend, Clint Murchison, planned to buy up all the company's stock.

At any rate, when Mundt was speaking at Aberdeen, S.D., he climaxed one rhetorical passage with: "As long as I represent the good people of South Dakota. . . ."

"You mean Texas, don't you, Karl?" interrupted a man in the audience.

The crowd, judging by this reaction, knew exactly what the heckler was talking about.

IMMIGRANT BOY

A guy who really loved America died the other day. He wasn't born here, which may have been why he could compare the country he chose to live in to the country he left. Anyway, when Charley Skouras, a 19-year-old immigrant, came here from Greece, the United States gave him opportunities, and he made the most of them, rising from a busboy in a hash house to the biggest theatre-owner in the nation.

But though he rose to fame and fortune, Charley Skouras never forgot his fellow men or the obligation he owed the country of opportunity. Most of his money—and he made a lot of it—went back into taxes or to charity. He helped build the $200,000 variety boys club in Los Angeles, promoted Brotherhood Week, built the cathedral of St. Sophia in Los Angeles.

This writer got to know Charley Skouras when we were organizing the Friendship Train in 1947. Charley had called in his theatre publicity men, told them to go all out to promote the Friendship Train from the theatres along the route.

"But boss," spoke up one of them, "We're just opening with 'Forever Amber.' It's a million-dollar picture. We can't plug that and this train at the same time."

"Which is more important," shot back the onetime immigrant boy from Greece. "'Forever Amber' or your country?"

CIRCUS FIRE HELPED CONGRESS

Though the House of Representatives is frequently referred to as a circus, not many people know that one of the top circus men of America is a member.

He is Jim Haley, a tall, quiet, slab-sided sort of man who came to Sarasota, Fla., from Alabama 30 years ago without a nickel in his pocket and worked his way up to the top of Ringling Brothers and Barnum Bailey, the greatest show on earth.

Then, having become general manager and vice president, disaster struck the circus—disaster in the form of a fire at Hartford, Conn., in which a stampeding, fear-maddened crowd killed women and children.

For months afterward, Jim Haley went around the lot with a haunted look, remembering that day. He lost 20 pounds, looked as if he were dying by inches. But after he had launched the circus for the 1945 season and began to pay back the several million dollars in damages fixed by a Connecticut court, Jim went up to Hartford to serve the jail sentence which the court had also given him.

The people down in Florida, however, knew Jim Haley better than this. They knew he was not responsible for that fire. He was the financial manager at the time, only happened to be in Hartford by accident. So they figured he took the rap. They also knew all the fine things he had done for their community. And when western Florida, which has shot ahead population-wise, was given a new congressional district, they sent Jim Haley to congress.

POLITICO-GO-ROUND

The GOP campaign is really getting into high gear. The Republican National Committee in Washington spent one day last week on the long-distance phone, called 300 people in New York, asked them for $1,000 apiece. Quite a few came through.

DORIS FLEESON

Nixon On His Own In Campaign Plan

WASHINGTON—Democrats have asked for some free telecast time to compensate for the televised Eisenhower cabinet meeting and the President's other recent "non-political" broadcasts. They really haven't much hope of getting it and their comments are rather mild, running to quips like "meet me at the matinee of the National Security Council."

Presidents traditionally make use of their prerogatives in the churches of a campaign, some more, some less. The pioneer Eisenhower TV first is a difference in degree, not in kind.

The last-minute strategem of Vice President Richard Nixon is something else again in the Democratic book. It is feared and resented. The fear naturally envenoms the resentment and insures that it will last a long time.

Within the last few weeks in the Mountain States and upper Middle West, the vice president has personally developed the red issue against Democratic Senate candidates. He brands them "members of the left wing, A.D.A. branch of their party," a charge he skillfully and horrendously embroiders—but always short of libel.

The Nixon attack cuts across direct statements by President Eisenhower that charges of this kind should not be an issue in the campaign. Yet because the vice president is operating far from Washington and merits only the back half of Eastern newspapers, it is a question just how fully informed the busy President is about the Nixon line.

The young vice president enjoys the deep personal regard of the President. In a similar situation in the past, the President seemed a little annoyed but rather emotionally warned reporters against trying to divide him from his vice president.

Republican leaders here claim Nixon is acting on his own. Putting aside the merits and moral aspects of his argument—which Democrats view as deplorable and about which Republicans are divided—he is showing himself an intensely practical politician, an untimidated partisan and a gambler on events and his own future.

He has chosen the one area in of the candidates give him a chance to pass a miracle. Six seats are at stake there amid wide-open spaces but relatively few people. A few thousand votes could turn the trick.

The geographical area is so great that the voters of the states involved will hardly realize that all of it is being subjected by an outsider to a kind of saturation bombing with an issue their own local leaders (in almost every case) were unwilling to use against fellow-townsmen. The local leaders have not rebelled publicly but they are telling correspondents their misgivings.

The fact that all the Democratic candidates involved are liberals makes it possible to lump them, despite their many differences. That one of them, Glen Taylor of Idaho, ran for vice president on the Progressive ticket with Henry Wallace, is more grist for the Nixon mill.

The vice president looked the ground over and decided he could raise a crop of Senate seats. He has not hesitated to use the issue he thought would serve and to arouse the deepest partisan feelings of the opposition. Such partisans are an integral part of politics though they rarely achieve the highest rewards. It has certainly been true in all national convention in late years that, when the push comes to the shove, the master-minds in the smoke-filled rooms fix on candidates who can appeal to the independents.

This is the future risk the ambitious Nixon is taking. For the present, he must feel (and doubtless correctly) that nothing succeeds like success and it is worth the gamble.

Two Pounds Of Solid Fight

By ALLEN EDGE
Star Staff Writer

A seven-ounce Christmas package was delivered straight into the arms of 10-year-old Janell Shepherd in the nick of time Christmas eve.

The furry Christmas bundle had come from the dog hospital where the child's prayers had helped to save the life of the small Mexican Chihuahua.

The dog, feared doomed to death by a brain concussion caused by an accidental fall, was smuggled home to 2545 No. 60th from the veterinarian in baby blankets.

Since the near-fatal accident, the five-inch high Mexican mite has found all the warmth of southern hospitality with his happy young mistress.

Today is Trinket's birthday—his first. He will undoubtedly eat his favorite fried meat capped with several milk bottle capfuls of milk. The food had better be warm, for the "spoiled" pup will turn his tiny nose up at cold food. The Shepherds say that his eating habits are very irregular and very finicky.

He will not eat dog food or raw meat, only fried meat.

A piece of bread will be examined carefully on both sides for the presence or butter. If there is no butter on the bread, back the pup trots to the table with the slice, setting it down to show he has been slighted.

Janell begged her family for three years for a dog. Then Mrs. Shepherd joined her daughter in favor of a small house dog addition to the family.

Pop was the biggest obstacle. Once talked into the idea of a dog, he had visions of taking a strong sturdy dog on hunting trips and buying a dog big enough to take care of possible intruders.

JANEL SHEPHERD AND TRINKET
... Father wanted a hunting dog ...

The women held the voting edge and Neil Shepherd didn't have a chance.

The result was the smallest house dog they could possibly get. Trinket may be small but even Neil will vouch that their two pounds of dog flesh is as brave as any St. Bernard.

However, the show of bravery has to be occasionally curtailed. Trinket once tried to attack an intruding dachshund, but Neil shoed away the canine stranger from the foolhardy dog. This preserved not only Trinket's life but also his bravado.

A Mexican basket was sitting uselessly in the Shepherd home until Trinket came to live at the Shepherds.

The buff and white Chihuahua will go to his sleeping basket on command and will not get out unless he is lifted out or the basket is tipped allowing him to leave. Watching the pup jump into the tall straw basket is like watching a horse run an obstacle at Churchill Downs—a graceful leap and plop, in for the night.

The basket is also Trinket's hiding place when he shoves his food off the paper or when he forgets he is housebroken.

The tiny dog will lie inside the basket with his usually wing-spread legs laid low, waiting, just waiting for a reprieve.

County Questionnaires

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have just seen a form which the county commissioners require county employees to sign. I was appalled at this practice of inquiring as to religion, party affiliation and race. These questions are listed in rather bold type, so they must be important to Mr. Barney.

Are we to assume that not only does he hire on this basis but that he lets out public contracts on this basis, too? Which religion is the favored one? Since I know he's a Republican, I need not guess on that question.

I phoned Del Lieneman and he agrees with Barney. I phoned Franz Radke (Mr. Lieneman's opponent for county commissioner) and thank God, he not only agrees with both Barney and Lieneman but he deprecates the use of such methods!

My thanks to those who have been wise enough to make the views of Barney and Lieneman public. And thanks to Mr. Franz Radke for making his views clear. I believe he's the man to vote for.
H. W. BURTON

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: What is happening to the freedoms we inherited from Lincoln, Jefferson and our other great forefathers?

The salary of a county employee is paid by tax money paid by all the people of this county regardless of their affiliation in religion or politics. So all jobs should be open to all applicants who shall be judged by their ability regardless of religion or political affiliation.

The Tearing Down

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In his statement that "the Eisenhower administration cannot in 20 months build up what the New Deal tore down in 20 years," Roman Hruska shows how cheap is his demagoguery. Rather let us state that in 20 months, Eisenhower however Hruska can't tear down what it took the Democratic party 20 years to build up. And in my opinion it is that tearing down business in which Mr. Hruska wishes to engage as a United States senator. Perhaps he would like to destroy rural electrification, the guarantee of bank deposits, the home and farm loan bills, conservation of our natural resources, flood control, old age assistance and a hundred other agencies we have come to appreciate.

Maybe Mr. Hruska and his party can put back on unemployment rolls the 10 million men and women Franklin D. Roosevelt found 20-odd years ago tramping our public highways, stop the ringing of millions of cash registers that were silent and rusty before the New Deal came along and put business and life into them, and take the American farmer off his high pedestal and start him down the Republican toboggan slide to where he was 20 years ago.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

This 1954 congressional campaign now drawing to a close has been outstanding for the depressing absence of the most common variety of common sense in much of the discussion filling the air. There was a classic example of it at Fairbury Wednesday where Republican Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois spoke. It seemed to us that Sen. Dirksen came very close to establishing a new low in American political discussion in one phase of his address.

America's Sense Of Justice

Sen. Dirksen charged in his Fairbury speech that prosperity under past Democratic administrations "had a graveyard tinge, a bloody touch." Then he added: "A great deal of it came back in wooden boxes from foreign battlefields." Somewhere along the line, it seems to us, even in the heat of political discussion men should exercise some restraint in what they say. Sen. Dirksen's partisanship is not of the type to suggest restraint. The last time we listened to the gentleman was during nominating speeches in the Republican national convention of 1952, when Mr. Dirksen in the course of presenting the name of the late Sen. Bob Taft to the convention as its candidate for the presidency pointed a finger at Gov. Tom Dewey, top strategist in the Eisenhower camp, and cried, rolling his eyes before the assembled thousands: "Governor, you led us down to defeat three times! Don't do it again!"

In his saner moments, we assume, Sen. Dirksen recognizes that no American President, Republican or Democrat, leads his people into a war with a song of gladness on his lips and a smile on his face—a war in which any intelligent man knows that lives of young men will be sacrificed, property destroyed and homes plunged into grief and sorrow. No man, Republican or Democrat, who has occupied the White House deserves to be charged directly or indirectly, by innuendo or by any other technique, with such gross inhumanity towards his countrymen.

Sen. Dirksen seems to forget that it was the martyred Lincoln, founder of the Republican party, loved by all of his countrymen, truly in every sense a man deserving of immortality in the reverence of his fellow Americans, who led this nation in the bloodiest war that ever took place on American soil. It was the martyred McKinley who led America in the Spanish-American War. Sen. Dirksen knows full well the circumstances of the attack by North Korean Communist forces on South Korea. It would have been a tough decision to make for any man who happened to be President. What would have been the consequence of sitting idly by? It is only the most elemental common sense that any man regardless of political label commits his country to war only with heartfelt, because that is the way it had to be. The memories of a brooding Lincoln, his face expressive of the great burdens and sorrows that he bore, the tragedy of William McKinley, a broken Wilson, and a Roosevelt who did not live to see the end of the conflict that ravaged and tormented him suggest that in political discussion there is no virtue greater than that of restraint.

A People Of Peace

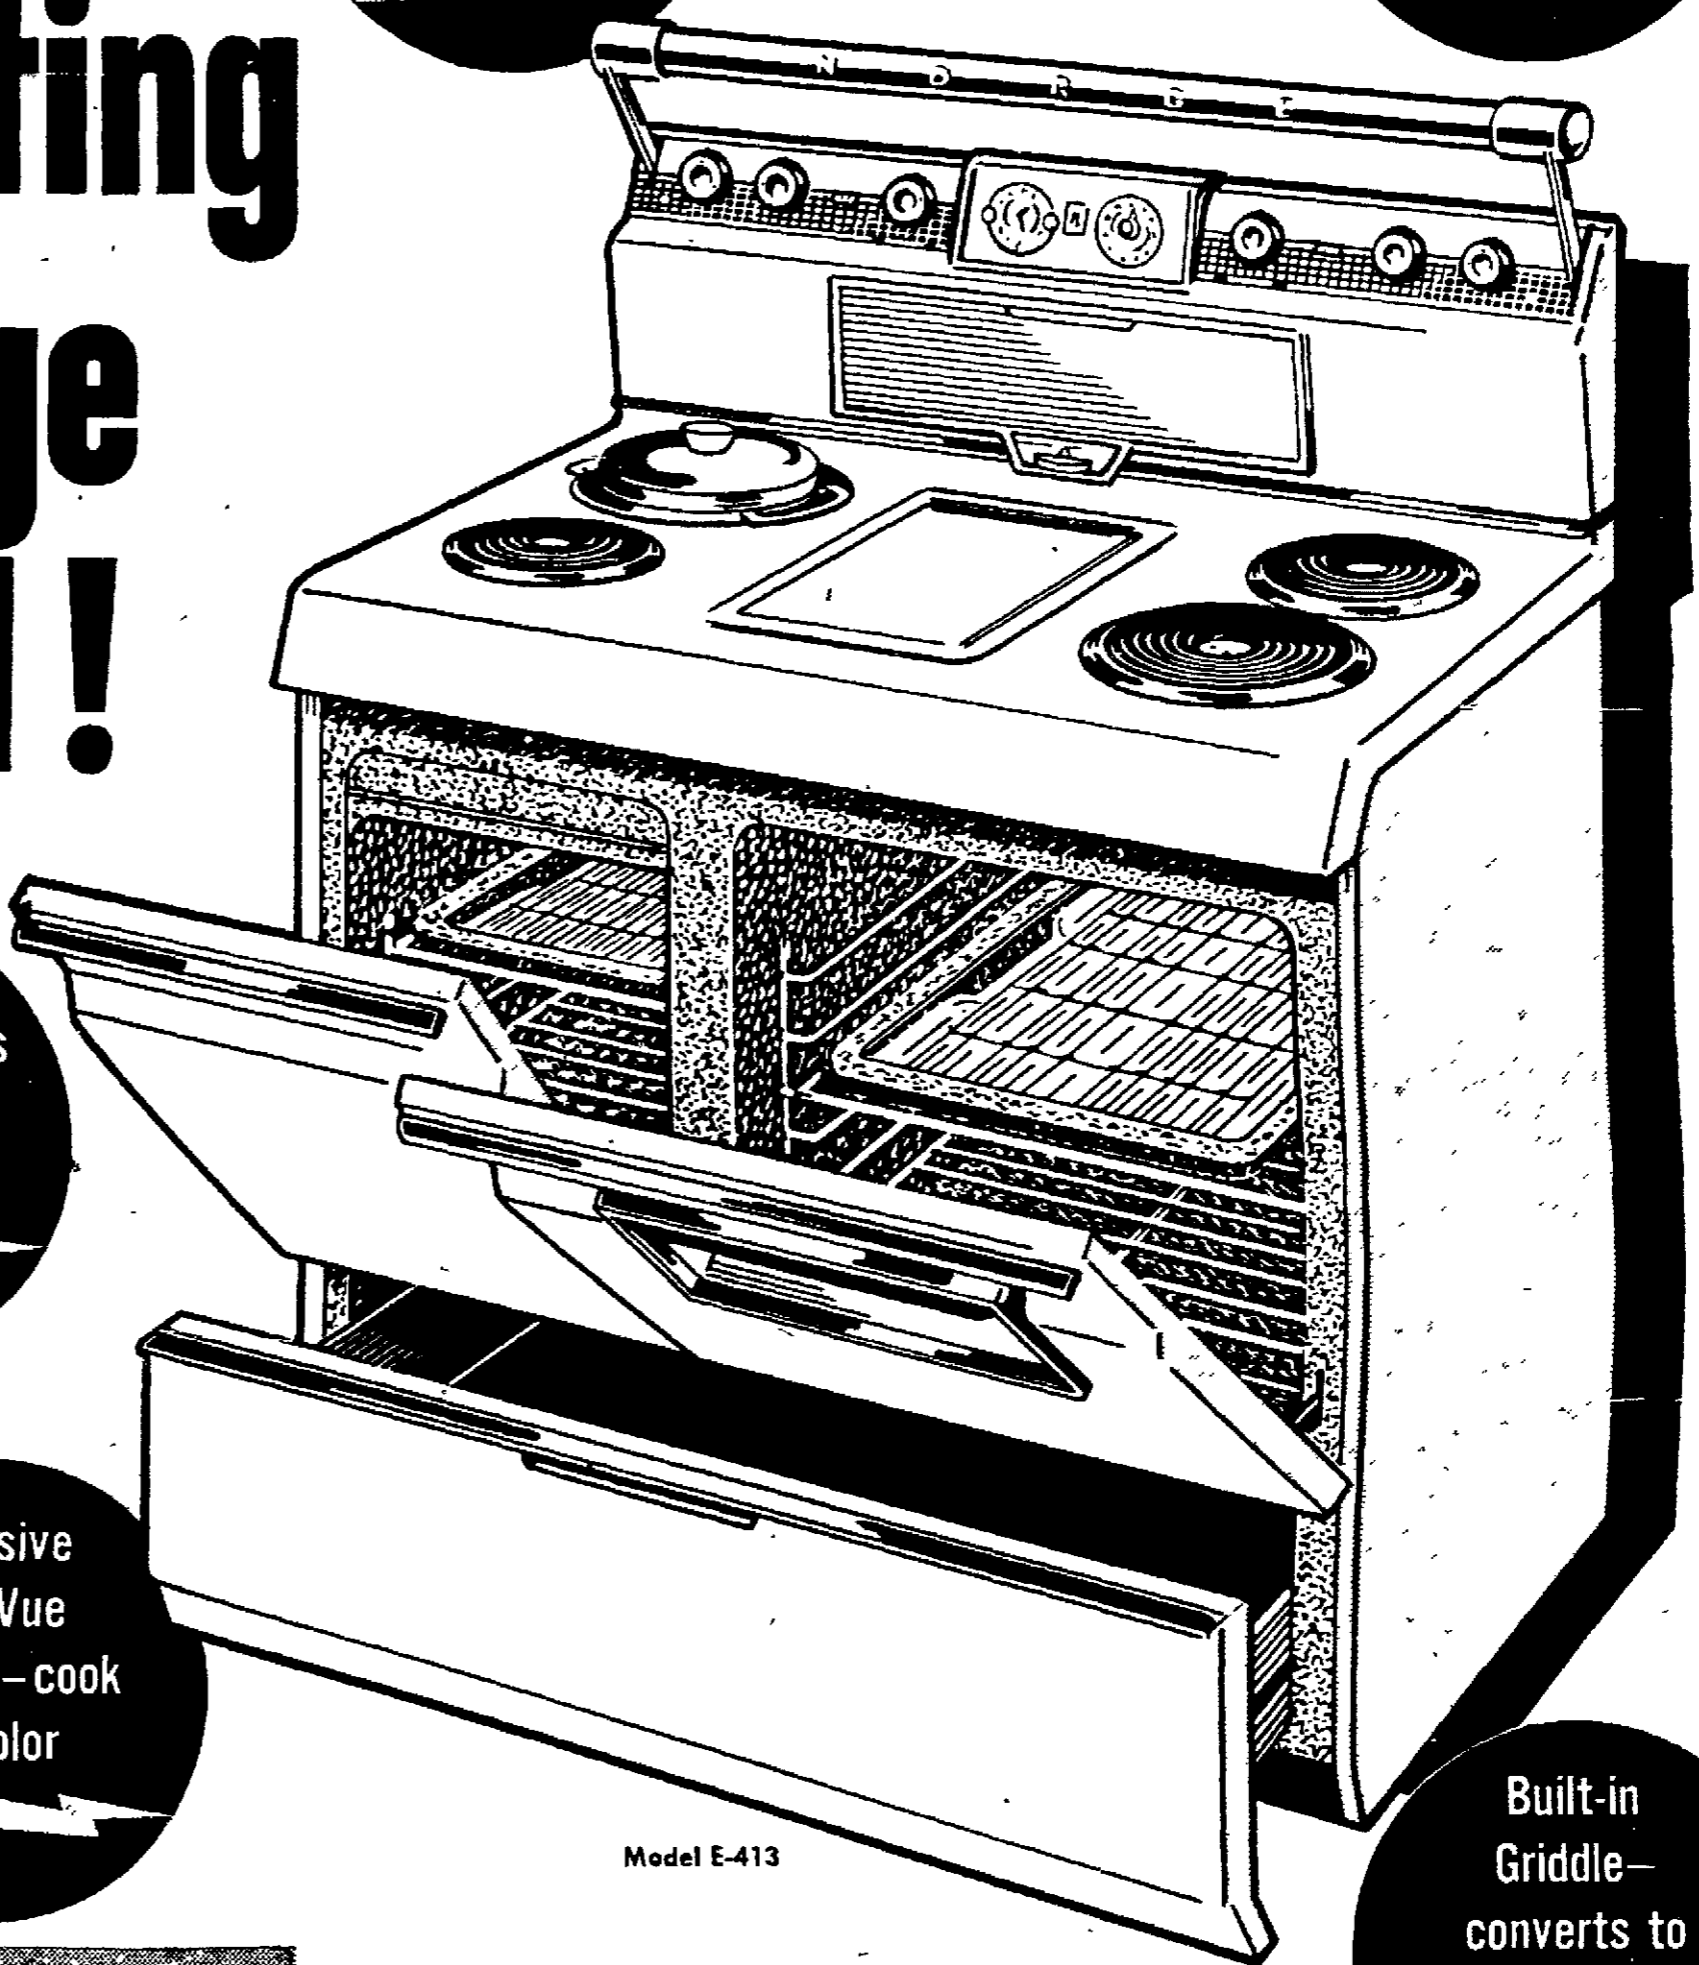

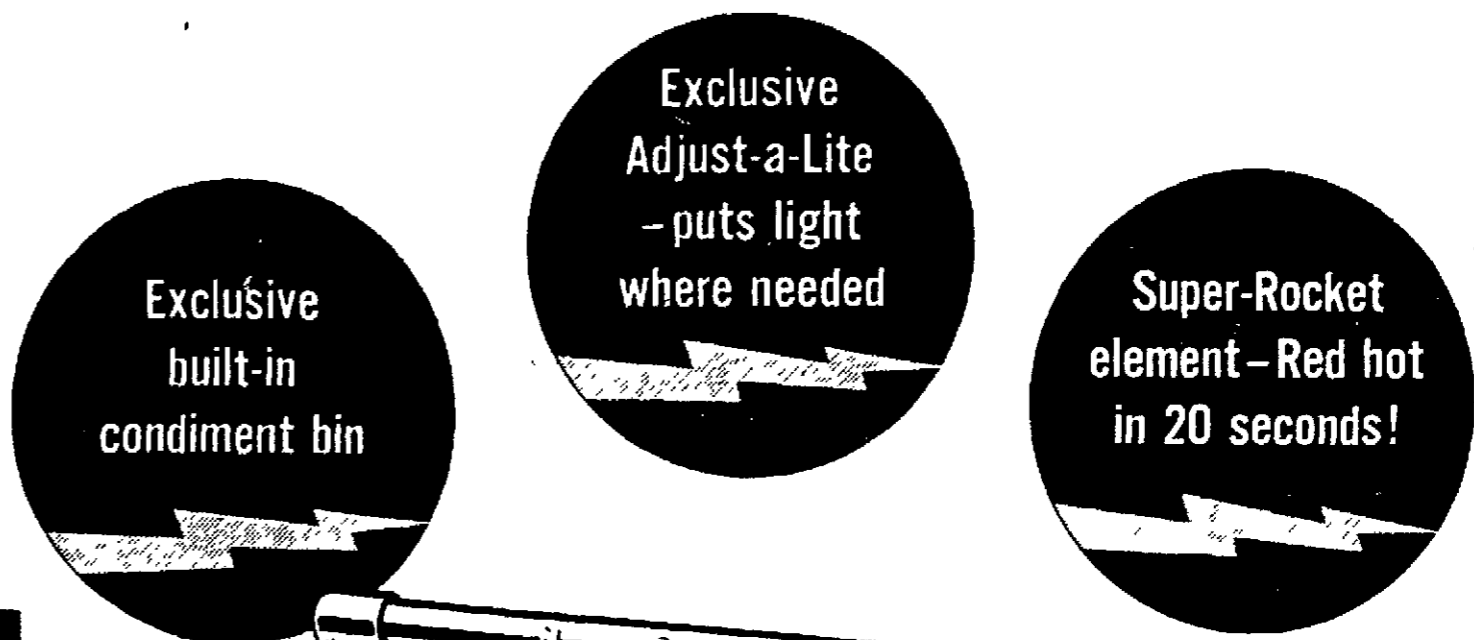

It is too late now for common sense to reassert itself in the conduct of a campaign that has seen millions of members of a political party labeled as left-wingers under the domination of Socialist planners. Editorially the Milwaukee Journal earlier in the week called attention to the fact that Adlai Stevenson throughout the course of his campaign has pursued a policy of simple common sense in discussion. May we hope for more of it in the future!

Just Imagine!

U.S. Navy Equals All Other Major Navies Combined

LONDON (Thursday) (AP)—The U. S. Navy is a colossal fighting force equal to all the other major navies of the world put together, an authoritative naval publication said Wednesday.

But Russia is building up "substantial forces" of cruisers, destroyers and submarines, it added.

The latest edition of Jane's Fighting Ships, a standard reference work of the navies of the world, said the U. S. Navy of 5,000 vessels not only is the largest peacetime fleet ever maintained by any country, but appears to be adopting scientific advances somewhat more rapidly than any other navy.

Russia Superior In Subs

Russia was rated superior to the United States only in numbers of submarines. Jane's estimated the Red underwater fleet totals between 370 and 400 vessels, as against the U. S. Navy's 200.

A large number of long-range Russian submarines "are now known to have been completed and commissioned for service recently," Jane's said.

These are of two types. One has a displacement of 2,900 tons, a speed of 20 knots and a range of 20,000 miles. The other has 1,600 tons displacement, a speed of 17 knots and a range of 13,000 miles.

18 To 20 a Year

The larger class has been seen in considerable numbers in the Baltic and the Far East, Jane's said. It estimated they are being built at the rate of 18 to 20 a year. The 1,600-ton subs spotted in the Far East were reported being constructed in shipyards throughout the Soviet Union.

Russia also is "now capable of a considerable mine-laying effort," Jane's said.

A comparison in numbers of major warcraft in the American and Russian fleets, based on Jane's, showed:

The United States has 101 fleet and escort aircraft carriers against none for Russia; 15 battleships against Russia's 3; 75 cruisers against Russia's 26—six more under construction—and 737 destroyers against Russia's 138.

Britain, once master of the seas, has ordered "no aircraft carriers, no battleships, no cruisers, no destroyers and no large warships of any kind" since the end of World War II, Jane's said.

Of the British rearmament program started in 1951, the largest ships under construction are 25 frigates.

"On the debit side," Jane's said, "now that the hostilities in the Far East are over, the mournful procession of British warships to the shipbreakers, which was continuous after the ending of the second world war but was temporarily arrested on the outbreak of war in Korea, is now being continued."

Co-operative Aid

Turning to the latest scientific and engineering developments, Jane's said the closer cooperation recently agreed upon between Britain and the United States should accelerate the development of guided missile ships.

"The launching of guided missiles from warships is now a fait accompli—an accomplished fact—as far as the United States is concerned," it continued, "but considerable further development of these weapons and study of their strategic and tactical use are required before any final decision can be made as to the most suitable seagoing launching platform."

It suggested that for long-range surface-to-surface missiles a new type of "battleship" may be developed "specially designed to carry a large number of the weapons with all the necessary control apparatus, and sufficiently heavily armored to give protection against similar weapons used by the enemy."

Shorter range missiles, it added, could be launched from present-day warships, including submarines adapted for the purpose.

Care Of Equipment Taught Reservists

"Take care of your equipment and it will take care of you" was the message Wednesday of a Fifth Army engineer mobile demonstration team outlining preventive maintenance to Lincoln reservists, National Guardsmen and ROTC students at the General John J. Pershing Armory.

The three-man Engineer team explained a program designed to save the soldier numerous headaches and problems and the American taxpayer a large number of dollars.

Led by Captain Francis J. Agresta of Lebanon, Pa., the team outlined care and maintenance of Army Engineer equipment that ranges from a $2.35 hand shovel to a $36,000 power shovel. The team gave National Guard members and Reservists a four-point plan of preventive maintenance which included operation, servicing, detection and correction.

Curbs On Acreage Of Edible Beans

Unexpected poor yields in the dry edible bean crop throughout the country has prompted the Department of Agriculture to remove that crop from acreage restrictions.

The crop had been previously included in the list of crops to which the restrictions still applied when the Department of Agriculture removed the curbs on total acreages last month. The move, announced by Robert Webb of the state ASC office in Lincoln, will affect only a relatively small section of Nebraska.

Dewey Charges Harriman Would Be Ineligible To Serve As N.Y. Governor

Demo Replies 'Ridiculous'

NEW YORK (U)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey charged Wednesday night that the Democratic Party would be ineligible on residence requirements to serve as governor, if elected, because he voted two years ago in a Washington, D.C., presidential primary.

Harriman, Democratic - Liberal candidate, replied that the Washington vote in no way impaired his legal residence in New York or his right to be governor. He said it was simply a party poll.

Harriman accused Dewey of going "from the infamous to the ridiculous."

Dewey issued his charge in a written statement Wednesday and elaborated on it Wednesday night on a television-radio program that originally had been allocated to Sen. Irving M. Ives, the Republican nominee for governor.

Oath

The governor said the New York State constitution stipulates that nobody shall be eligible to be governor unless he has been for "five years next preceding his election a resident of the state."

Dewey said that to participate in the Washington primary Harriman had to sign an oath swearing or affirming he had resided in the District of Columbia for one year.

"Did he tell the truth?" Dewey asked his airwave audience. "Or did he commit perjury? I don't know. That's for the courts to decide."

"So you have the ridiculous situation where anybody who might vote for Harriman won't have the slightest idea whether he could take office."

Dewey gave no indication who, if anybody, would bring action for "the courts to decide."

'Rules Clear'

"The entire subject is being studied," he told newsmen.

The election is Nov. 2, less than a week away.

Dewey said the Washington, D. C., primary in 1952 "was a real election of delegates to a national presidential convention."

"The rules are clear," Dewey said. "No man can be a resident of both the District of Columbia and his home state. He can vote in one or the other. He can be a resident of one or the other—but not both."

Harriman's first comment on the Dewey charge was:

"How silly can we get?"

Later, in a news conference, he asked whether the Republicans are

"now trying to win the election by default."

'Faltering'

Newspaper polls show Harriman to be leading. He has described a heavy barrage of attacks on him by Dewey and Ives as "faltering" intended to bolster a "faltering" campaign.

Harriman said he had taken part in the Washington primary but would not have done so if there had been any question that it would interrupt his legal residence in New York State.

He said sample ballots for the primary specifically stated that participation "does not prevent your voting in your home state in November."

"The people of Washington live no right to vote, and there are no election laws in the District of Columbia," Harriman said. "The presidential preference primary had the same legal effect as a vote for your favorite baseball player."

Harriman was in Washington at the time, June 1952, as director of mutual security. He said he voted in the 1952 election from his home in Orange County, New York.

Disputed Personnel Form—

Questions 'In Hands Of Men Of Good Will,' Says Barney

Chauncey E. Barney, Lancaster County Commissioner and county GOP chairman, has defended the practice of asking county job holders for their political and religious affiliations, claiming that such information "in the hands of men of good will," is a beneficial thing.

The controversial questions in personnel forms prepared by the county have drawn heavy fire from county Democratic spokesmen and the Lincoln Council of Human Relations. Another commissioner, Chris Kuhner, is opposed to the questions.

In a statement issued Wednesday, Barney said:

"It is not only the public official's right but his duty to know as much as possible about the entire background of every person who seeks public employment . . .

Loose Practice

"No amount of vicious attack will convince me to adopt the loose kind of employment practices that resulted in the hiring and promotion of those who betrayed the Democratic party and the American people during the last scandalous national administration."

City job applications contain neither of the two questions involved.

The asking of such questions is also prohibited for state jobs in Nebraska.

The state merit council in employing personnel either in the state or county offices are prohibited from asking or framing questions, which would reveal political or religious opinions of job applicants, Director Dwight Williams says.

Williams says such questions are never asked in "principle" because discrimination is prohibited if the status of the applicant is known.

Omaha Firm Has Low Bid On Pump

The Fairbanks Morse Co. of Omaha has submitted the low bid of $2,078 at the City Hall for a new pump to improve water service in Bethany.

The new 1,000 gallon per minute capacity pump will be installed in the University Place pumping station to replace a smaller unit.

Low bidder on a pre-fabricated steel building for the park department was the Capital Steel Co. with a figure of $6,350. The building will be placed in Antelope Park to house equipment and machinery.

The low bid of $7,795 on a sanitary sewer in the area from 55th to 56th, Myrtle to Roosevelt, was submitted by Dobson & Robinson.

Curbs On Acreage Of Edible Beans

Unexpected poor yields in the dry edible bean crop throughout the country has prompted the Department of Agriculture to remove that crop from acreage restrictions.

The crop had been previously included in the list of crops to which the restrictions still applied when the Department of Agriculture removed the curbs on total acreages last month. The move, announced by Robert Webb of the state ASC office in Lincoln, will affect only a relatively small section of Nebraska.

Dewey Charges Harriman Would Be Ineligible To Serve As N.Y. Governor

Demo Replies 'Ridiculous'

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey charged Wednesday night Averell Harriman would be ineligible on residence requirements to serve as governor, if elected, because he voted two years ago in a Washington, D.C., presidential primary.

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal candidate, replied that the Washington vote in no way impaired his legal residence in New York or his right to be governor. He said it was simply a party poll.

Harriman accused Dewey of going "from the infamous to the ridiculous."

Dewey issued his charge in a written statement Wednesday and elaborated on it Wednesday night on a television-radio program that originally had been allocated to Sen. Irving M. Ives, the Republican nominee for governor.

Oath

The governor said the New York State constitution stipulates that nobody shall be eligible to be governor unless he has been for "five years next preceding his election a resident of the state."

Dewey said that to participate in the Washington primary Harriman had to sign an oath swearing or affirming he had resided in the District of Columbia for one year.

"Did he tell the truth?" Dewey asked his airwave audience. "Or did he commit perjury? I don't know. That's for the courts to decide."

"So you have the ridiculous situation where anybody who might vote for Harriman won't have the slightest idea whether he could take office."

Dewey gave no indication who, if anybody, would bring action for "the courts to decide."

'Rules Clear'

"The entire subject is being studied," he told newsmen.

The election is Nov. 2, less than a week away.

Dewey said the Washington, D. C., primary in 1952 "was a real election of delegates to a national presidential convention."

"The rules are clear," Dewey said. "No man can be a resident of both the District of Columbia and his home state. He can vote in one or the other. He can be a resident of one or the other—but not both."

Harriman's first comment on the Dewey charge was:

"How silly can we get?"

Later, in a news conference, he asked whether the Republicans are

"now trying to win the election by default."

'Faltering'

Newspaper polls show Harriman to be leading. He has described a heavy barrage of attacks on him by Dewey and Ives as "smears" intended to bolster a "faltering" campaign.

Harriman said he had taken part in the Washington primary but would not have done so if there had been any question that it would interrupt his legal residence in New York State.

He said sample ballots for the primary specifically stated that participation "does not prevent your voting in your home state in November."

"The people of Washington have no right to vote, and there are no election laws in the District of Columbia," Harriman said. "The presidential preference primary had the same legal effect as a vote for your favorite baseball player."

Harriman was in Washington at the time, June 1952, as director of mutual security. He said he voted in the 1952 election from his home in Orange County, New York.

Disputed Personnel Form—

Questions 'In Hands Of Men Of Good Will,' Says Barney

Chauncey E. Barney, Lancaster County Commissioner and county GOP chairman, has defended the practice of asking county job holders for their political and religious affiliations, claiming that such information "in the hands of men of good will," is a beneficial thing.

The controversial questions in personnel forms prepared by the county have drawn heavy fire from county Democratic spokesmen and the Lincoln Council of Human Relations. Another commissioner, Chris Kuhner, is opposed to the questions.

In a statement issued Wednesday, Barney said:

"It is not only the public official's right but his duty to know as much as possible about the entire background of every person who seeks public employment . . .

STAN DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

It is not my intent to break any body's rice bowl. For I am for the quick dollar as well as the next man. And, in fact, even quicker I hope.

Nonetheless, I must clobber down on the "Do-It-Yourself" movement. Before we all do ourselves in. The "build-it-yourself" and "make-it-at-home" kits are becoming a way of life.

This is an appeal to man's frail vanity that vigor and wealth lie in installing your own window boxes. Or putting an electric outlet in the garden without frying yourself. It is also CHEAPER. So says the book.

"Why pay the carpenter?" says the lord of the manor. "Why I used to build all kinds of things when I was a kid."

He then reaches for the Jumber and the Little Dandy table saw.

Bzzzzzzzzzz. Look, ma, no hands. Well, these things come upon us like the locusts.

A few years ago it was "back-to-the-farm."

Couple of people wrote books about it. Sounded wonderful. You got up in the morning. Early. You toss a couple of handfuls of corn to the chickens.

While the chickens are out scoffing the corn, you sneak in and dip their nests for eggs. The chickens come back and say:

"Now where in the world did I lay those eggs?"

After awhile they give up and lay some more. You take the eggs down and sell them and sit around the house. Belting the apple jack and counting your money.

What it did not say in the book is that corn costs more than eggs. Chickens get the most appalling bugs. When they are not busy pecking corn, they peck each other. A pecked chicken is a sorry sight.

Turkeys are worse. They get their feet wet and instead of going to bed and sniffling and taking aspirin, they die! They do for a fact. They do it to spite you. They want you to have to go back and beg for your job again.

I put a small investment in turkeys once. Everytime. Thanks-giving rolls around, I feel better. Just thinking of all those lame-brained birds getting it in the neck. Killing is too good for them.

About this "Do-It-Yourself" thing. This is the same old Pied Piper tune.

I am advised how to replace my sash weight. This is useless information. If my sash weight needed replacing, I would hire a sash weight replacer.

The only thing I know about sash weights I got from the Ruth Snyder-Judd Gray trial. Mr. Gray was a corset salesman. He rigged up a "Do-It-Yourself" kit with a sash weight and picture wire.

Since Ruth's loving husband was extra baggage, she belted him heavily with the sash weight and thereafter tied wire around his neck until he was an insurance statistic.

This is a handy device. And if someone would sell such a "Do-At-Home" kit, I would buy it. There are a lot of people I would like to bang with a sash weight.

This shows what comes of the "Do-It-Yourself" business by amateurs. Nothing but trouble. Personally, I gave up hanging pictures. But before I was convinced, my thumbs were a sight.

When all those bulbs and valves and things stick in the bathroom, I call a plumber. I nearly drowned myself before I learned that I could not install such complicated devices. No matter what kind of kit I had.

I call attention again to Madame Snyder and Mr. Gray. When the big day rolled around at Sing Sing, they did not call in a boy with a "Do-It-Yourself" kit.

They called in a gentleman who was used to installing electrical outlets in the wicked. And he gave Mr. Gray a professional shock that has lasted to this day.

District Asks City Take Over Section

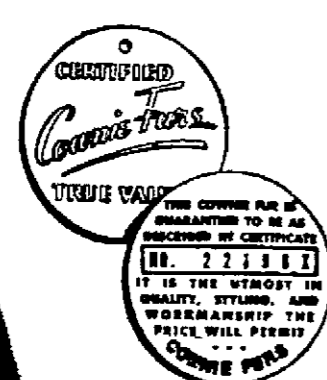

The Lincoln School District has been asked to take over a part of Lancaster County's School District 18.

The request was made to the Lincoln Board of Education by A. T. Schnoor, District 18 Board treasurer. The other two District 18 Board members have resigned.

According to Schnoor, there are six pupils in District 18, one of whom attends District 107, two which attends District 107, two District 113 and three attending Lincoln schools. District 18 has no school building of its own.

If Lincoln would take a part of the District 18 closest to Husker-ville, Schnoor said, then other districts could absorb the rest of the District 18 area. This, he said, is the only permanent solution to the problem.

District 18 covers about four and one-half sections of land southwest of Husker-ville.

Hastings Will Take Over 840-Unit Housing Project

Spencer Park Constructed For $3,000,000

HASTINGS, Neb. (U)—Spencer Park, 840-unit housing project located at the southeast corner of Hastings, is being relinquished to the city by the Federal Public Housing Administration for $44,918.02.

The unit will be owned by the city and operated by its housing authority beginning Nov. 1. Terms were agreed to here by Hugo Schwartz of Chicago, PHA assistant director for disposition.

The housing project was constructed in 1943 as a temporary war-time project at a cost of some $3,000,000. Federal law provides relinquishment of equipment necessary for operation of the project. The government did not give up 2 commercial buildings, which will go to the highest bidder.

Spencer Park now is 55 per cent occupied, but occupancy is expected to soar now that federal restrictions will be removed. The restrictions provided that if private housing was available within 25 miles, units in the project could not be rented. There is a privately-owned and not fully-occupied project at Harvard, less than 25 miles distant.

Hastings officials said renting preference will be given veterans and low income families. Maximum income from the project is expected to total some $36,000 a month.

A study of feasibility and the possibility of acquiring Spencer Park was begun last November by a civic committee, which recommended city acquisition. The housing authority was created in June and negotiations were opened with the federal government.

Neville Attacks Interior Record

ST. PAUL, Neb. (U)—Keith Neville of North Platte, Democratic candidate for the 6-year U. S. Senate term, Wednesday attacked the record of the present Interior Department in the matter of providing funds for rural electrification projects.

Speaking at a Democratic rally in St. Paul, Neville said rural electrification interests throughout the country "are thoroughly alarmed at the stand being taken by the administration now in power in Washington."

Neville added that "the new program of the Interior Department means less power for REA at higher costs, and more power for private interests at lower costs."

3-Day Training Session Opens Thursday For Older 4-H Group

Over 100 junior 4-H leaders from throughout Nebraska are expected to attend the opening day session of a three day conference convening in Lincoln Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The training session is designed to help the older 4-H members who are now ably assisting the club leaders with all 4-H activities to further develop their leadership abilities.

Of particular interest to the junior leaders will be the special activities workshops on Friday. Heading up these workshops, where groups of about 20 will discuss various activities, will be Wes Antes on "demonstrations," Dorothea Holstein on "club and community service activities," Guy Davis on "incentives in club work," and Elaine Skucius on "developing interesting meetings."

This will be followed on Saturday morning with group conferences on the development of programs. The programs and those in charge of the discussions are "health," Helen Becker and Dorothea Holstein; "safety," William Lutes and Guy Davis; "achievement days," Elaine Skucius; "citizenship," Wes Antes; and "adult leader recognition," Duane Loewenstein.

The speaker for the Thursday evening program will Elton Lux, state leader, finance and personnel, Agricultural Extension Service. He will discuss "Planning Our 4-H Club Program."

On Friday evening Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, will welcome the group to the campus. The featured speaker of the evening, Dr. Frank A. Court, minister of the St. Paul Methodist Church, will address the group on "personal development."

The Thursday session will be held at the Lincoln Hotel. Friday, the group will meet at the College Activities Building on the College of Agriculture campus. The final day of the conference, Saturday, the Junior 4-H leaders will convene at the Student Union on the city campus of the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Ingham, born Oct. 2, 1869 at La Grange, Tex., was educated in Monona County, Iowa, schools; Western Normal College at Shenandoah, Iowa, and was graduated in 1893 from Sioux City College of Medicine.

He practiced from 1893 to 1913 at Coleridge, then moved to Wayne where he resided until several years ago when he and Mrs. Ingham moved to California.

Richardson Corn Harvest Is Nearly 50 Pct. Completed

FALLS CITY, Neb. (U)—The corn harvest in Richardson County is about 50 per cent completed, County Agent Tom Aitken estimates.

Aitken said the number of fallen ears is excessively large this year, pointing out that in some instances it amounts to about five bushels to the acre.

The county agent says the falling ears are caused by shanks weakened by the work of the European corn borer. Besides this damage, there is much corn of poor quality due to the work of the corn ear worm inside the husk of the ear.

Undermining Of State Public Power Agencies Feared

Hydro Electric System Bond Transaction Told To Neville

OMAHA (U)—Keith Neville of North Platte expressed fears Wednesday that national administration policy may be undermining Nebraska public power agencies.

Neville, Democratic nominee for the six-year Senate term, quoting what he regarded as "usually reliable sources," said that the Treasury department has sold bonds on the Nebraska hydro-electric system for 60 cents on the dollar.

Amplifying statements made in a speech at Weeping Water, Neville said here that these hydro bonds were originally owned by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he said, and when the RFC was disbanded, the bonds were turned into the Treasury department.

"If my information is correct," Neville said, "it will mean that someone is trying to discredit the Nebraska public power system; someone is to reap a bountiful profit in the purchase of these bonds, which should be worth 100 cents of anybody's money."

"The record of the present administration in Washington shows that it is very much opposed to public power," Neville said. "The effect of the sale of bonds at a very low figure would tend to discredit public power," he said, and would make it difficult for the public power agencies to issue revenue bonds in the future.

Neville said he is making every effort to learn more details of these alleged transactions.

Curtis Predicts State GOP Sweep

OMAHA (U)—Rep. Carl T. Curtis, Republican candidate for the 6-year U. S. Senate term, predicted Wednesday that the GOP in Nebraska "will sweep the three Senatorial races, the four Congressional races and all the state offices."

Curtis spoke before the Omaha Real Estate Board. He predicted a "very large majority" in favor of Victor Anderson of Lincoln, the Republican candidate for governor.

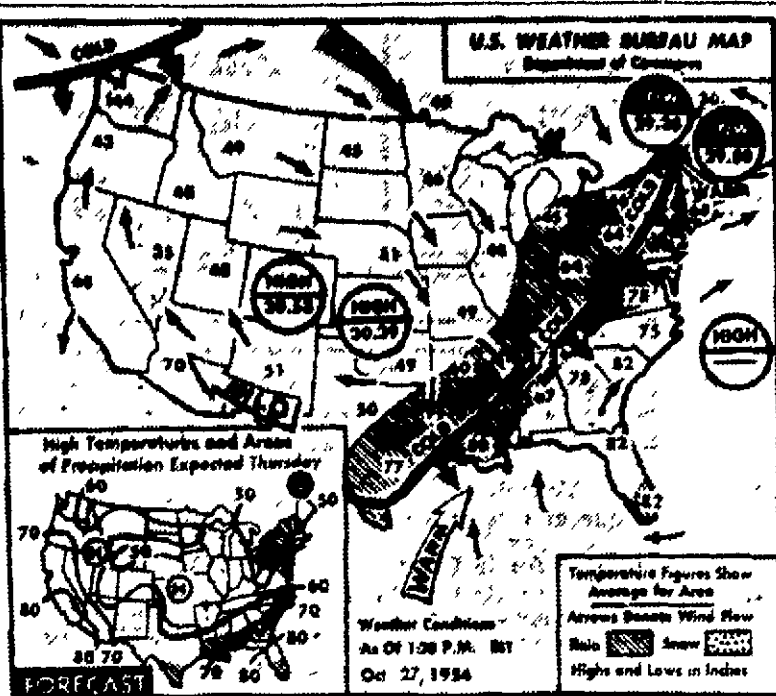

Another speaker was Roman L. Hruska, GOP candidate for the 4-year term in the U. S. Senate. He criticized "wild new deal spending and tax policies."

Other speakers included Anderson and Jackson B. Chase, Republican candidate for Congress.

Partly Cloudy And Little Warmer

Generally fair skies are in prospect for the western half of the country on Thursday except for a few thundershowers in southern Texas. Rain showers possibly changing to snow flurries will fall in upstate New York, Pennsylvania and north-eastern Ohio. A narrow band of showers also is due from the eastern Carolinas to southern Georgia and along the Gulf coast to Louisiana. It will be colder from the New England states southward to Georgia and westward to the Ohio and Tennessee valleys and the Gulf states. It will be warmer from the Rockies eastward to the Great Lakes and southward to the central Plains states and the mid-Mississippi valley. (AP Wirephoto Map.)

Leg Ripped Off, Man Gamely Saves Own Life

SUTHERLAND, Neb. — His leg brutally torn off by the power take-off of a tractor that he was operating, Bill G. Brown, 41, saved his own life by gamely applying a tourniquet to the stump and staunching the flow of blood.

Brown was grinding feed on his farm-ranch 15 miles north of Hershey when the wind blew his boot strap into the power take-off.

His right leg was completely ripped off at the knee.

Brown managed to apply the tourniquet and then lay beside the machine for 15 minutes until his brother returned to the work site and rushed him to a Sutherland hospital.

This Burglar Knew 'Secret' Of Tavern

SIDNEY, Neb. (U)—A burglar who knew where the "secret hiding" place of cash funds in the Stag Tavern was broke in and left with $300.

The "secret" hiding place was a pocket of a pair of overalls hanging in a closet.

Otoe Political Scene Has A Female Touch

Lincoln Star Special

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb.—Women appear to be in a fair position to widen their hold on offices in Otoe County government.

They already have one county officer, Mrs. Francis Webb who is register of deeds. And they are assured of keeping that post at least, since Mrs. Webb is being opposed in her bid for re-election by another woman, Mrs. Irma Speckhals.

Holdrege Driver Found Guilty Of Motor Homicide

KEARNEY, Neb. (U)—A District Court jury of six men and six women Wednesday found Norman Hoffman, 27, of Holdrege, Neb., guilty of motor vehicle homicide in connection with the death of Billy Carlson, 26, also of Holdrege, last May 16.

Carlson was killed when Hoffman's car, in which he was a passenger, crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Roy Jay of Lincoln, Ark., on Highway 30 in Kearney.

Prosecution witnesses said Hoffman was found partially beneath the wheel, his feet between the clutch and brake pedals when the emergency rescue unit arrived after the accident. Carlson's body was found on the front seat of the car on the right hand side.

Hoffman had testified that he had gotten into the back seat of the car in Grand Island and gone to sleep and had no recollection of driving the car.

State Wheat Stocks Near Record Figure
High Mark Was Set Last Year

The amount of wheat stored or held in Nebraska as of Oct. 1 was just a shade under the record high amount of a year ago, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

Wheat supplies in all positions on Oct. 1 totaled 99,650,000 bushels, compared with the record 99,707,000 bushels a year ago.

Farm stocks made up 33,769,000 bushels of the total this month, compared with 53,308,000 a year ago.

Movement of wheat from farms during the quarter ending Oct. 1 totaled 36,075,000 bushels. The comparable figure last year was 37,590,000 bushels.

Stocks of other grains as of Oct. 1:

Wheat: 1,093,000 bushels on hand, 28 per cent more than last year. Farm stocks totaled 961,000 bushels or 88 per cent of all stocks, and were 27 per cent greater than the 750,000 bushels on farms a year earlier.

Corn: 103,490,000 bushels on hand, compared with 78,590,000 bushels last year. Farm stocks were down 11 per cent to 29,459,000 bushels, 13 per cent under the 10-year average. Movement of corn from farms during the past quarter totaled 49,009,000 bushels, compared with a record 61,520,000 bushels during the same quarter last year.

Oats: 68,177,000 bushels on hand, or 67 per cent more than last year. Farm stocks of 62,830,000 bushels were the highest for any Oct. 1 since 1945.

Barley: 5,557,000 bushels on hand, nearly double last year's 2,922,000. Farm stocks totaled 5,386,000, compared with 2,758,000 last year.

Old crop sorghum grain: 543,000 on hand, compared with 274,000 bushels last year.

For the country as a whole, wheat stocks of nearly 1.7 billion bushels are the largest of record, equivalent to domestic needs for more than two years. And the corn carryover of 918 million bushels in all positions on Oct. 1 is the largest of record.

Airmen Criticize Nebraska Driver License Rules

Criticism is being heard from airmen stationed at the Lincoln Air Base over a Nebraska law providing that motor vehicle operators residing in the state for more than 30 days must obtain Nebraska licenses.

The airmen complain that they have licenses in their home states which they have to keep up during their temporary residence at the air base here and thus have to pay twice for a permit to drive.

Some state officials are sympathetic and contend that it makes a "false record" of the number of licenses in the state and that holders probably would be transferred from the state before any use of their registration would be made.

There is agitation for repeal of the law. Through reciprocity agreements there is retaliation against Nebraskans in other states. Particularly in the District of Columbia and Massachusetts, both military personnel and civilians from this state are now being required to have licenses there.

Efforts have been made by officers at the base both during World War II and more recently to get compliance with the state law. The motor vehicle department has been asked to have examiners at the base regularly so that personnel can obtain licenses without coming into the city.

Owen J. Boyles, director of the motor vehicle division, says no special drive is being made to enforce the 30 day residence law. When military personnel are stopped for violations and their drivers' licenses examined, he says, they are informed of the need for a Nebraska license.

Boyles said some of the base personnel when instructed to get licenses have told that in Illinois a concerted campaign by military personnel caused the state to rescind the requirement for local licenses.

Boyles said that such "pressure tactics" here could only result in more stringent enforcement of the law unless the coming Legislature sees fit to repeal it.

LINCOLN--A HUSTLE AND BUSTLE TOWN

HUSTLING and bustling are the adjectives that best fit Lincoln at the moment—Everyone seems to be hurrying around preparing for guests—unrolling the red carpet and dusting off welcome mats—Considerable of the planning involves the week-end and those who seem to be coming from near and far to attend Saturday's game and its fore and aft activities—

The other day we mentioned guests who were arriving from Washington, D. C. to spend the week-end in Lincoln—and this morning we learned that there also are to be guests from New York.

ARRIVING on Friday to spend the week-end at the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Henderson will be Dr. and Mrs. Con Amora V. Burt, and their son, Roger, of New York City who, in addition to being guests of the Hendersons, also will visit their son, Warren Burt, who is attending the University of Nebraska—

We think we should tell you, too, that Mr. Henderson comes from Chicago, to where the Hendersons will soon be moving, to spend the week-end with his family and his guests.

THEN we heard that Dr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Nelson of Billings, Mont., will be arriving on Friday to be the week-end house guests of Dr. and Mrs. George Misko.

Dr. and Mrs. Nelson come to Lincoln from Omaha where, at the moment, Dr. Nelson is attending a Mid-west medical meeting.

ON SATURDAY evening Dr. and Mrs. George Misko, Dr. and Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Frerichs and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Frerichs of Boston, will dine together at the University Club.

SPEAKING of dining and the University Club—In another group at the club following the game will be Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Farrar of Hyannis; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Druliner.

THERE will be out of town guests at the Holiday Club's dinner dance Saturday evening, so we hear—and on the guest list for the party are Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson B. Weston, Beatrice; Capt. and Mrs. Marvin Evenson, Columbia, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kellar, Minneapolis, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. McIntosh, La Verne, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Noyes Rogers, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Vance Traphagen, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pegler.

HAVE some homecomers to mention this morning—the Harleys, for instance—Mr. and Mrs. J. Burks—who have just returned to Lincoln from their summer home at Pelican Lake, Minn.

AND we hear that Friday will bring Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Hall Davis back to town—Mr. and Mrs. Davis went to Colorado to the football game last week-end, and following the game went to Colorado Springs where they have been spending the week at the Broadmoor.

where they had been visiting Mrs. Frerichs' family, to spend a few weeks as guests of the parents of Lt. Frerichs (USN), Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Frerichs.

SOMEONE just told us that Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lundie have a house guest—Mrs. R. J. Loskill who arrived a day or two ago from the Loskills' former home, Peoria, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Loskill are moving to Sao Paulo, Brazil, where Mr. Loskill has been transferred; and from names of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Campbell who leave on Monday for Portland, Ore., where Mr. Campbell will attend a meeting of the National Reclamation Association—From Portland Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will go on to Seattle, and from there to Vancouver.

SOMEONE just told us that Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lundie have a house guest—Mrs. R. J. Loskill who arrived a day or two ago from the Loskills' former home, Peoria, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Loskill are moving to Sao Paulo, Brazil, where Mr. Loskill has been transferred; and from where he will come to join Mrs. Loskill in Lincoln.

SINCE her arrival Mrs. Loskill has been the incentive for numerous informal courtesies including a tea on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Lundie entertained at her home. Fifteen guests were invited.

AND when Mrs. Richard Thomas entertains at luncheon at the University Club tomorrow, Mrs. Loskill will again be the honoree. Mrs. Thomas' guest list will include her bridge eight-some to which she has added four guests.

The Alpha Tau chapter members of Beta Sigma Phi and their husbands entertained at a Halloween Carnival last Saturday evening at the Izaak Walton League clubhouse. Included in the program were movies of the chapter members by Myron White.

Guests of the chapter were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kell and Roger White. In charge of arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kenney, co-chairmen, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Max Biebert and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Potter.

Miss Delores Monis presided at the meeting of Lambda chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Monday evening when plans were made for a Halloween party to be held Monday evening, Nov. 1, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Erickson. Miss Jean Baker will be co-hostess.

Announcement was made of the annual initiation tea to be held Sunday, Nov. 7. Guests at the meeting were Lona Larsen and Shirley DeBoer.

Xi Beta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met Monday evening for a "hobo" party for which Mrs. William Jacobs and Miss Viola Nelson were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Jacobs.

The evening hours were spent with cards, and winning a prize for the best costume was Miss Margaret Egan. A guest for the evening was Miss Wauneta Sharp.

The Young Set Dances For Charity

Some who dance just pay the piper, but one young crowd in Lincoln dances to pay into its favorite charity fund—the Child Guidance Center. This group of teen-agers wanted dancing lessons—they found an able teacher in Mrs. Charles Heyl who offered her services gratis. However, the boys and girls decided that it was not fair to dance and not pay, and since Mrs. Heyl refused any remuneration, the dancing lesson fees go to the young crowd's charity fund which will be turned over to the Child Guidance Center.

The recreation room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright seems to afford just the right environment for a dancing studio, and that is where we found the members of this philanthropic group. The four couples dancing in the picture are (left to right) Judy Adams and Chip Haacker, Lynn Wright and Dick Yant, Ann Sowles and Dick Piper, and Charlotte Risser and John Barthel. Other members of the dancing group are Mary Wall, Sarah Stenten, Kay Diamond, Mary Lou Finnismier, Jack Wylie, John Hinkle, Tom Davies and Jim Sheldon.

Boy 'Politico' Gets Truman's Support

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

When Bill Hunt of Lincoln High School runs a campaign, he really goes to the people who know, including former President Harry S. Truman, who favorably endorsed Bill's program.

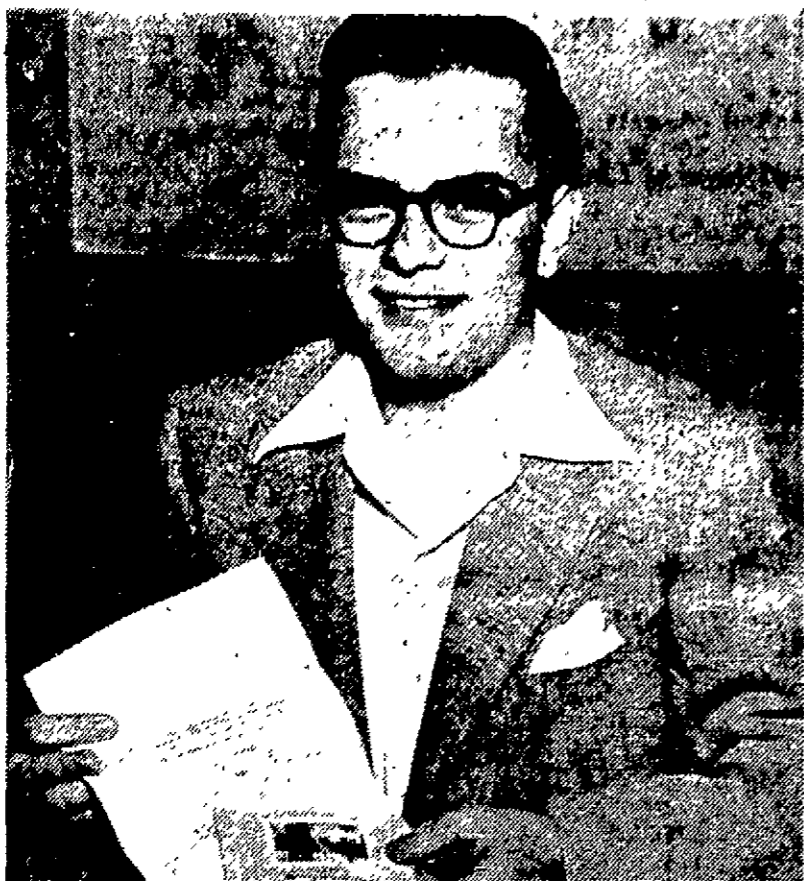

The official letter from the former president concurred in a program Bill set up for his campaign to run for county attorney, on the Democratic Party, in the schools' County Government campaign.

Bill sent his program to Former President Truman, and asked him if it sounded all right. Truman answered "I think your platform is a good one — it is based on the principles of the Democratic Party."

With his endorsement in tow, Bill, 16, of 636 So. 28th, headed into his campaign to gain the primary election on Nov. 2 with a full head of steam. He is competing with three other "Democratic" candidates for the party nod.

County Government Day, a function designed to stimulate political interest in high school students, will hold its primary the same day as the national general elections. The general election will be held Nov. 9th.

A serious student of the political scene, Bill says he wants the county government job because it's challenging and likewise interesting. He says he wants to go into law work as a career.

Bill says he made up his mind to be a Democrat early in his years, and has held fast to his beliefs ever since. He says he believes strongly in what the party stands for.

In his campaign program, Bill says "We of the Democratic Party have not and shall not be influenced by the few whose personal ambitions are found at the expense of the taxpayers. We have pledged our support to the farmers, the little guy, and the unemployed in this great land."

'Tragic Blunders'

He adds that a "confused administration has made tragic blunders both at home and abroad. Our allies shy away from us, the unemployment problem has grown, and our natural resources are slowly being dissolved."

"All governments make mistakes, but a line is drawn between sanity and complete mania."

With this as his program, Bill is asking that all Democrats will support him. He says he'll know Nov. 2 how they feel in the schools, but he's heartened that the former President of the United States stands behind his resolves.

Planning Board Takes Note Of Traffic System Conflicts

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Taking note of current conflicting lines of thought on a major street plan for the city, the City Planning Commission has recommended establishment of a Technical Advisory Committee to co-ordinate the affairs of all city departments and advisory groups.

The present lack of such co-ordination was noted in the fact that the Police Department traffic division has recommended a one-way street system for the city while the comprehensive city plan, a Commission product, calls for a system of major distributor streets with two-way traffic.

The Commission recommended in separate action that the City Council take note of the traffic division's conflict with the comprehensive city plan.

However, support of a one-way system was expressed by one Commission member, Robert L. Meyer. The comprehensive city plan was adopted by the Commission before Meyer and two other members, John Selleck and Mrs. Tillie C. Woods, were appointed.

More Efficient

One-way streets, Meyer said, have been proven to move traffic more efficiently than two-way streets and with one-way, there is much less congestion at intersections. Meyer denied the assertion by Commission Chairman E. J. Faulkner that one-way systems mean less parking space.

Furthermore, he asserted, streets should not be primarily for parking anyway. Every curb parking space, he reminded, is a very expensive one.

Faulkner had stated that one-way systems are confusing and undesirable. It is a question, he said, of their traffic movement advantages versus their other disadvantages.

'Last Resort'

A one-way system was described by Director of Public Properties and Improvements D. L. Erickson as a "last resort." This same sentiment was expressed by Eldrich Lovelace of Lincoln's St. Louis, Mo., city planning firm of Harland Bartholomew & Associates.

The question arose when Erickson showed the Commission plans for the new southeast diagonal calling for the use of K as the only street into and out of the four-lane diagonal.

The proposed one-way street system calls for K and L and one-way pairs into and out of the diagonal.

Erickson's plan for the diagonal complies with the Bartholomew report, according to Lovelace. This, he said, is in line with the thought that K, Q, 10th and 17th be developed as a major distributor streets for through traffic and as feeders into and out of the business district.

'K' to be Developed

K, he said, is to be developed under the comprehensive plan on west over the railroad tracks and into West O. L. he said, is later to become a substitute feeder into the diagonal when that arterial is made a six-lane street.

It is to solve this and other similar problems that the new Technical Advisory Committee is recommended.

According to Faulkner, this committee would be composed of members of various city departments and one member from each of the city's many advisory boards such as the Commission, Traffic Commission, Parks and Recreation Board, etc.

This group, Faulkner said, would attempt to co-ordinate the activities of all parties. Each member of the committee, he said, would be called upon at meetings to present those things which his parent body is doing that might affect another group.

Huskers Polish Defense Against Pass, Spread

End Jack Braley Slowed By Infection; Guard Wagner Will Be Ready For Tigers

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska concentrated its energies on pass defense and the Tiger spread Wednesday as Coach Bill Glassford assigned another strenuous session of scrimmage.

"We are working extremely hard on pass defense," Glassford said, "because we know Missouri can throw and complete passes."

Nebraska got through Tuesday's scrimmage with no casualties and Guard Bob Wagner, injured at Colorado, started running Wednesday. He is expected to be ready for full duty against the Tigers.

End Corps Hit

But once again the end corps has suffered a severe knock. Jack Braley, No. 2 right flankman, will miss at least two days of practice this week with a lung infection. It won't be determined until late in the week whether or not he'll be able to play Saturday.

Actually, the Tigers will be the first team Nebraska has met this year that uses the forward pass as an intricate part of their offense—almost as much as they run.

In five games Missouri has spiraled 79 aerials and 41 have been caught. That is a percentage of .519 and only five passes have been intercepted.

And Mr. Vic Eaton, the No. 1 quarterback, has completed 18 of 35 passes for 245 yards to lead the Big Seven, while his sub, Tony Seardine, has made good on 14 of 25 tries.

First Real Test

Missouri's ground game is also expected to keep the Huskers busy, thus Glassford's observation that "this game will be the first real test of our defenses."

"Our defense has held up pretty well all year, but Missouri will throw at us and in Bob Bauman they'll have the best fullback we've met this year."

While the Tigers don't substitute by quarters, they do switch personnel frequently and have a lot of reserves.

However, reports issued from Columbia indicate that the Missouri guard situation is getting desperate. Veterans Terry Roberts and Bobby Gooch have been eliminated by knee operations and Sophomores Carl Osterloh and Chuck Mehrer suffered injuries in the Iowa State game last week.

So the Tiger coaches, in preparation for the Huskers, converted Charley Bull, second-string left tackle, and Gene Roll, No. 2 fullback, to the first and second left guard spot, backed up by Glenn Hachmann, also an ex-tackle.

Hastings Rallies To Tip Strong Beatrice, 25-19

Lincoln Star Special

HASTINGS—Hastings came from behind twice here Wednesday night to defeat a stubborn Beatrice eleven, 25-19.

The Orangemen took an early lead in the first quarter when Jerry Sand dashed over from six yards out to cap a 49 yard march. Hastings retaliated in the second quarter, with Ronnie Price trotting the last three yards of an 80-yard drive.

A few minutes later the Orangemen again took the lead, 13-6, after Bill Cook recovered a Hastings fumble on the Tiger 47 to start a drive that ended with Max Martz crashing over from the four. Bill Peterson passed to Larry Wenzl for the extra point.

Tiger Tom Osborn made it 13-12 after returning the kickoff to the Beatrice 47 when he hit Jim Pettit with a 14-yard touchdown pass.

Hastings went ahead to stay just before the half ended when Joe Hill intercepted a Petersen aerial on the Beatrice 33 and raced to the 23. Osborn ran 17 yards to score and Joe Swift plunged for the point that made it 19-13 at the half.

At the start of the second half, the Tigers took the kickoff and rolled unstoppered to score, with Swift plunging the last two yards. The final score of the game came on a thrilling 50-yard sprint by Beatrice's Martz in the fourth quarter. Larry Baker took the ball from center on the midfield stripe, passed to Martz in the flat about five yards behind the line of scrimmage on the east sideline. Fullback Max set sail, crossed to the west side enroute as he evaded tackler after tackler and tallied standing up.

With Beatrice back in the ball game, action got hot and heavy, but neither team could launch a successful drive in the closing minutes. Hastings drove to the Beatrice 18 late in the contest, but the Tigers were pushed back to the 23 as the game ended.

Hastings scoring: touchdowns, Price, Peterson, Osborn, Swift conversion, Swift. Beatrice scoring: touchdowns, Sand, Martz; conversion, Wenzl (pass).

Aurora Wins First By Tipping Albion

ALBION—Aurora High School racked up its first win of the season here Wednesday night, defeating Albion, 7-6.

Rodney Roberts took the second half kickoff and raced 70 yards for the score. Pat Mead kicked the game deciding extra point for Aurora.

Aurora scoring: touchdowns, Roberts conversion, Mead. Albion scoring: Touchdown, Morgan.

Giving Them Fitz

By Bill Fitzgerald

There's Gold Dust In The Air

Somebody said "That all-state talk is in the air, I notice," and before you could spot the voice there were whispers of here and linemen there who could make the annual golden eleven of Cornhuskerland.

From the high northwest came a murmur about a senior half-back named Jerry Schoettger of the forces of Rushville High. It is said that he can sprint from his home town by way of the Sand Hills country and end up in front of Memorial Stadium before the 1935 autos and that he hits the line like Wally Hopp of the 1940 Hastings High team and eludes tacklers in the manner of Charley Stukles of the undefeated Broncos of 1934 NCC reputation.

And from Omaha an awed voice spoke of the fabulous ability and wisdom of Mike Dugan, the Creighton Prep kid whom it is said can play a full game and never dirty his glasses, such is his adeptness.

"If Notre Dame wants him, he must be the best," goes the argument, and the story is that the Irish want him all the way.

But a shout from the deep southeast disclaims the fame of Dugan and swears that there will never be another Jerry Collier.

Now Collier is the Falls City High leader, runner and passer. They say that the Bengals from Richardson County are as smooth as the fur of a kitten when the slim boy is thinking plays. Another Doug Gibson goes the story, and his exodus from high school will not occur until another fall has gone away.

"Quarterbacks," you say?" cries a voice from Tecumseh. And follows a proclamation that long Bob Finn of the Indians can match mind and right arm with anyone in the state.

The versatility of this lanky senior with the genius for handling the Tecumseh T is cited. Did he not play end well last fall and move into the quarterback post this September when his brother Steve became a diploma victim?

Aye, that Finn boy is worth talking about.

Out at the Lincoln High Oval and up and down "O" Street the cheers are for Roger Khrounek, the boy who—some say—has replaced irreplaceable Ted King of 1931-32 touchdown memory.

Some say Bill Pfeiff's latest sensation is better than the scooter who did big scoring for the undefeated Links of those state championship seasons of recent memory.

Is Khrounek the best in the state? Well, goes the logical argument, the Dodger needs no receivers like these passers. Just give him the ball and throw some blocks and he'll break through that concrete wall on the north end of the Oval.

So the whispers, murmurs, cries, proclamations and cheers will continue for another month while the state sees the last of its prep stars of 1934.

Come time for the gold stars on the report cards and the state will find itself flooded with the best mind of backs in many years.

Maybe this state is coming into a decade of football wealth.

Chieftain Pass Barrage Stopped By Hilltoppers

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

If Lincoln should someday undergo an aerial bombardment, College View football players could take it in stride.

Wednesday night they learned all about air attacks when they beat Bellevue, 13-0, at the Lincoln High Oval. The Viewmen stopped 16 of 24 Bellevue passes, most of which were thrown by Jerry Vojtech from a spread formation.

	Bellevue	College V.
First downs	11	9
Passing yardage	110	27
Passes attempted	24	16
Passes completed	8	3
Passes intercepted by	6	3
Fumbles lost	2	3
Yards penalized	23	60

College View mixed spread and split-T power to move effectively in the second half. Led by fullback Larry Epp and halfback Lynn Hatcher, the Hilltoppers moved well in the last two periods after being held to five yards rushing in the first half.

Line Holds Well

Despite the skimpy rushing total, College View held a 6-0 lead over the Chieftains at halftime, and had demonstrated their defensive ability. Although playing without guard Glenn Hoy, the College View line held well.

The Viewmen got their first touchdown with less than 10 minutes gone in the first quarter when Hatcher returned a punt 53 yards. It was a masterpiece of deception, and started with a fluke.

College View stopped Bellevue on the 32-yard line and forced Bob Weber to punt. Larry Epp took Weber's kick on the College View 47 but fumbled. Hatcher scooped up the ball and ran to the right or east sideline, where he was hemmed in by Bellevue defenders.

Reversed Field

"Little Hatch" reversed his field, outran several tacklers and finally picked up enough blockers to go all the way. A plunge for the conversion was stopped.

College View went 68 yards on a once-interrupted drive for its touchdown in the third period. Junior Jim Harvey and freshman Dave Myers took turns quarterbacking the split-T machine.

The CV line opened up big holes for Harvey, Myers, Hatcher, Epp and Lew Brown. A 21-yard end run by Hatcher was the key play in the drive, which bogged down when Bellevue recovered a fumble on its five-yard line.

But on the next play Dan Crawford recovered for the Viewman. A penalty moved the ball from the five to the three; Harvey made one yard on a keep; and Myers scored on a wedge from the one. Epp's plunge for the point was good.

Bellevue's air artillery was based on the tosses of Vojtech and the receiving of Jim Krajicek and Al Ellerbrooke. Vojtech was also a threat on end sweeps.

Although Bellevue completed eight passes, College View intercepted three passes at crucial times to keep the Chieftains out of touchdown land.

Brown stole one pass on the College View five and returned the ball to the 22 in the first period. In the second period Epp grabbed one of Vojtech's tosses on the College View 45 and ran to the Bellevue 24 before a last-ditch tackle stopped him. Shortly after that he had a near-touchdown run called back for a clipping penalty after he had stolen another pass.

3 Players 'Fired' From Pitt's Squad

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Coach Tom Hamilton Wednesday night cut three players from the Pitt football squad after they failed to show up for practice for the second consecutive day.

The players are all juniors: Ed Stowe, a first string left guard; Joe Los, a second-string right guard who had seen considerable action and Gene Steratore, a reserve halfback.

In a prepared statement, Hamilton declared:

"I fail to understand an athlete who can break faith with his team mates. He does not deserve to wear a Pitt uniform."

The players could not be reached for comment. Graduate manager Frank Carver said he did not know if they were still on the campus.

The firings marked the second occasion Hamilton has shaved the Pitt roster since taking over the head coaching duties from Lowell (Red) Dawson after Pitt lost its first three games.

More than two weeks ago he dismissed halfback Lou Cimaroli as a "disciplinary" measure. A source close to the squad said friction developed between the player and an assistant coach.

Hamilton, Pitt's athletic director, took over the team after Dawson was hospitalized with a heart ailment. Dawson is now convalescing but Hamilton will finish out the season as coach.

The firings Wednesday night came as the squad was buckling down for one of its toughest tests of the season, a meeting Saturday with undefeated West Virginia University at Morgantown, W. Va.

Hamilton has guided the Panthers to two consecutive victories a 21-19 upset of Navy and a 14-7 victory over Northwestern.

Graduate manager Carver said the dismissal cases are closed and there is no prospect of the players rejoining the squad this season or next.

Husker Linemen Praised By All-American Board

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A couple of fired-up, determined linemen who had leading roles in the upset of Colorado last Saturday got strong backing from the regional All-American football nominating board Wednesday.

Charley Bryant, 195, guard, and tackle Don Glantz, 200, both seniors led a fast charging line in Nebraska's 20-6 victory that ended Colorado's victory streak at five games. The Huskers held one of the nation's sharpest ground attacks to 158 yards.

Center Kurt Burris and end Max Boydston of Oklahoma again were recognized for work in the Sooners' 21-0 victory over Kansas State.

The board of five sportscasters and five writers also were high on the play of three Kansas State linemen who made the going rough for Oklahoma. They were Ron Marcinak, 195, senior guard, and tackles Ron Nery, 215, and Larry Hartshorn, 215.

Harper weighed 146½ and Flanagan, 150.

A's Final Decision Is Set Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League meets today to try to decide—once and for all—whether the Athletics will stay in Philadelphia or move to Kansas City.

First item of business at the special meeting, called for 9:30 a.m. CST at the Waldorf Astoria will be a vote on approval of an eight-man syndicate of Philadelphia businessmen as new owners of the A's.

The House of Mack, Connie and his two sons, Roy and Earle, have signed the papers for the transfer of their stock to the syndicate in a deal involving approximately $4,000,000. The money is supposed to be in escrow.

Six of the eight clubs must approve any new owner. Any three can block approval.

It is not a certainty that the league will approve the new Philadelphia deal. If the eight-man syndicate is turned down it will be because of anti-Philadelphia sentiment among the other owners rather than anything objectionable about the individuals involved.

OMAHA—An estimated 8,000 football fans saw a fast Creighton Prep team stay in the fight for the state grid championship with a decisive 32-13 victory over undefeated Omaha Benson at Creighton Stadium Wednesday night.

Prep won on the points of Quarterback Mike Dugan and Halfbacks Bob Varley and Leo Von Tersch, a junior who wrecked the tough Bunnies with three touchdowns and sent Prep to the city championship.

But it was the sharp and consistently effective blocking of the Junior Jay line which opened the holes through which these three backs broke for the touchdowns.

Prep led at the half 12-0 and at the end of the third quarter it was 19-0. Then Benson came back on the running and passing of Halfback Bob Harden to trade touchdowns and produce the final score.

Ball well off the Benson single wing. He passed to end Jim Moore for an 11-hard touchdown in the third quarter and caught a pass from Bob Sherwood and went 10 yards through a broken field for the final Benson touchdown.

Varley broke Prep into the lead with a brilliant 31-yard scoring run off a dive buck over right guard after six minutes of play in the first quarter. He hurdled a line-backer and outran the safety man.

Slick Dugan, a faker whose reputation is no greater than his prowess, passed well on a 77-yard drive for the second score. Von Tersch, a 162-pound halfback, bucked 4 yards for the score.

Prep drove 44-yards for the third touchdown and Von Tersch ran 18 yards for the 18-0 lead. Paul Sagau converted.

Benson made it 19-6, but Prep retaliated on a 63-yard march in which halfback Don Moran took a 20-yard pass from Dugan after it was dropped by Benson halfback who apparently had it intercepted.

Moran's recovery put the ball on the Benson 5 and Dugan bucked over.

Benson drove 70 yards to make it 26-13. Then Prep went 52 yards with the imaginative Dugan sending Von Tersch ripping across from the 9 on fourth down when Benson was set for a pass.

Kahl Remains 'Big Man' For Wesleyan's Offense

Junior Halfback Cliff Kahl of Big Springs continues to man the big artillery for Nebraska Wesleyan's football squad, statistics for seven games reveal.

Kahl tops his mates in rushing, total offense, pass receiving and scoring, with ample support from

Elks Give $865 To 'Big Red' Drive

The "Big Red" grant-in-aid campaign drive has reached $33,613.

Elsworth Du Teau, chairman of the $40,000 athletic scholarship drive sponsored by the University of Nebraska, made the announcement after receiving an $865 check from Lincoln Elks Lodge No. 80.

The money will go to pay tuition, board, books, lodging and the opportunity of working on a job for $15 a month for one athlete for a full year, Du Teau said. Ralph E. Connell, executive secretary of the Elks, and George Farley, exalted ruler, presented the check to Bill Orwig, athletic director, and James Pittenger, alumni secretary.

The funds raised will go to help the athletic department maintain its new $90,000 Grant-In-Aid program for one year. After this year the department will be self sustaining, according to Du Teau.

The Elks based their donation on figures released by Orwig earlier this year which list the total amount of money needed for each individual grant-in-aid for an in-state student at $865, and for an out-of-state student at $1,025.

Halfback Bob Starr of Lincoln and Fullback Sanford Nelson of Lincoln.

Kahl now has a total of 417 rushing yards on 70 tries for a game average of 59.5 and leads in total offense with the same figures. He has caught seven passes for 144 yards and one touchdown, and leads the Methodist scorers with 18 points.

Starr, who did not play against Midland last Saturday, has a 45 yard per game average rushing on 60 tries and a total net gain rushing of 271 yards. Starr and Nelson with 12 points each, are tied for second place on the scoring column.

Despite a poor fourth quarter against Midland when reserves gave up 134 yards and seven first downs, the Plainsmen continue to play good defensive ball, limiting foes to but 166.6 yards per game in total offense and but 124.7 of these on the ground. The Wesleyan attack is moving at a 211.5 yard per game clip.

Gym Classes Open

Classes in beginning gymnastics are to begin Saturday at the YMCA for boys from age 9-12.

The classes will start at 9 a.m., with Wayne Strickler, tumbler at the University of Nebraska and former Lincoln High School gymnastics letter winner, in charge.

Boys wishing to register for the course, which will last for six weeks, may check in at the Boys Department at the Y Saturday.

'Good' Quail Hunting Season Forecast

Nebraska hunters will fare better with the opening of the quail season this Saturday, than they have during the past pheasant season. The quail are very plentiful and good shooting should be the general rule.

The long season, Oct. 30-Nov. 25, should extend into the end of the harvest season and the predominately heavy cover should become less a problem as the season progresses. Hunting with dogs will be almost mandatory the early part of the season, but this is usually the case with quail.

Hunter success on pheasants was light, as was expected. A low pheasant population is part of the reason for the low harvest of ring-necked. Probably the small amount of harvested grain, both sorgum and corn, contributed as great a share to the low bags.

The going was rough, with many hunters giving up and taking to driving the roads in search of the elusive pheasants.

Nebraska hunters have been doing a good job of obeying the hunting laws in spite of a notorious case in the western part of the state involving non-resident hunters. Four hunters paid out $1,170 in fines and liquidated damages and had four almost-new guns confiscated by the court. They had a total of 40 birds, of which 21 were hens. Their comment: "Nebraskans just aren't very hospitable."

Hunters gunning for quail this coming Saturday should keep in mind the daily hunting hours for quail are from one-half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset. According to Game Commission technicians this gives the birds time to covey up for the night, before the sun goes down.

The importance of asking permission of the landowner cannot be stressed too much, according to Game Commission officials. Once again the hunters can be commended but there are always a few that cause local resentment against all hunters.

The quail season is open in the following counties: Adams, Buffalo, Butler, Cass, Clay, Dawson, Douglas, Fillmore, Franklin, Frontier, Furnas, Gage, Gosper, Hall, Hamilton, Harlan, Hayes, Hitchcock, Howard, Jefferson, Johnson, Kearney, Lancaster, Lincoln, Merrick, Nance, Nemaha, Nuckolls, Otoe, Pawnee, Phelps, Polk, Red Willow, Richardson, Saline, Sarpy, Saunders, Seward, Thayer, Webster and York Counties and that portion of the following counties located south of U.S. Highway No. 30: Colfax, Dodge, Platte, and Washington, except for Federal and State sanctuaries and refuges in these areas.

All other counties are closed.

The bag limit is six, possession limit six.

Provoo Reindicted For Treason

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal grand jury Wednesday reindicted John David Provoo, a former San Francisco bank clerk, for treason, charging that he went over to the Japanese while a prisoner of war in World War II.

Provoo, a one-time Army staff sergeant, was convicted of a similar charge after a four-month trial in New York in February 1953, and sentenced to life imprisonment. A federal appeals court upset the conviction.

The U.S. District Court of Appeals in New York ruled last Aug.

27 that Provoo should have been tried in Maryland, where he was held as an Army prisoner at Ft. Meade at the time of his original indictment, rather than in New York.

The indictment returned Wednesday listed seven "overt acts" by which Provoo allegedly committed "with treasonable intent to betray the United States and to adhere to and give aid and comfort to" the Japanese government.

One of the seven charged that Provoo turned in a report to the Japanese on Army Capt. Burton

C. Thomson of Swea City, Iowa, which resulted in Thomson's execution by his captors.

Board OKs $267,000 Bid On New School

The Board of Education has approved the $267,000 bid of the Kingery Construction Co. for the new Eastridge Elementary School, completion date, with a damage clause and a deadline, Kingery had bid $273,000.

In other action, the Board approved a change in plans for the Merle Beattie addition. To comply with the city's building code, the addition to the south of the main building will be two stories instead of one as originally planned. Statehouse Control Is Spotlighted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The retirement of two powerful governors at opposite ends of the country has turned an unusually bright spotlight this year on a battle for statehouse control in 34 states.

Bare-knuckle infighting has broken out in down-to-the-wire drives for the right to succeed Thomas E. Dewey, retiring Republican governor of New York, and Earl Warren, the California Republican who became chief justice.

These two states control a total of 77 out of 531 electoral votes for president—a major target for parties and individuals already thinking of 1956.

That factor, plus the uncertainties of this tense off-season campaign, has given new importance to sometimes overlooked gubernatorial races which in some states have become symbolic of the national battle for control.

The Republicans went into the race with 29 governors, to 19 Democrats, the largest GOP statehouse advantage since 1930, when the split was exactly the same.

The GOP lost Maine in a September upset, when Democrat Edmund S. Muskie defeated Gov. Burton M. Cross. Six Republican and eight Democratic governors are holdovers who face no election this year.

Now the battle is for 22 Republican and 11 Democratic jobs, and 77 candidates are scrapping for them. Democratic candidates in Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee have no opposition.

In all, 10 Republican and five Democratic governors are seeking re-election.

In California, Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, 57-year-old heir to Warren, has been "running scared" in recent weeks against an opponent he ignored in the primary—Democrat Richard P. Graves, 47-year-old former college lecturer on government.

Knight was Warren's lieutenant governor for three terms and succeeded the chief justice last year. Now he is making his first full-fledged thrust for leadership of the pivotal state, campaigning hard despite a two-party plurality of 900,000 votes over Graves in the primary.

Dewey's mantle in New York fell on Sen. Irving M. Ives, who has lost an election.

He is fighting Averell Harriman, 62-year-old multimillionaire industrialist and former ambassador, who won the support of Tammany Hall in a bitter convention battle with Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. Harriman has never been a nominee for elective office before, but he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952.

Brisk election skirmishing has sharpened what some political leaders call a conflict between the big city votes of New York against upstate voters.

With some polls showing Harriman ahead, Ives charged recently that his opponent was unqualified to handle the state's massive budget. He said Harriman was president of a steamship line when it was involved in a $250,000 bribe case in the '20s.

Harriman called the charge a "baseless attack upon my personal honor and integrity" and said he had been cleared years ago of any complicity.

Paint People Gives Tips On Biting Baby's Diet

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — At first glance, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn. looks like the last organization in the world to be giving advice on baby's diet.

Yet here it is Wednesday with this announcement: If your youngster persists in gnawing on wood, or in eating inedible items, take him to a doctor promptly.

Naturally the first question is: Why do the paint and varnish people care?

Paint Blamed
Their president, Gen. Joseph F. Battley, said the answer is simple. Almost every time a child becomes ill or dies after chewing on a painted object, paint gets the blame.

Because of this, his association has been doing research on the problem for years. Its conclusion: "Paint is overly condemned."

During its studies the association has come up with some information on a weird disease known as the pica.

He'll Eat Anything
Every parent has been horrified at what a tot will stick into his mouth. But Battley said some youngsters go far beyond this, and show a constant craving for furniture, dirt, coal plaster or fibre.

He said this child may be suffering from the pica. This pica has nothing to do with the size of type; it gets its name from the birds. The magpie belongs to the pica family, birds that will pick up almost anything and eat it.

Battley said the young human magpies may have a diet deficiency or they may have some emotional upset.

Strange Situations
At any rate, whenever the paint experts hear of an illness in which paint is blamed, they investigate—and they have run into some strange situations.

The general—he was a chemical expert for the Army before he retired—has a picture of a desk that looks as if a herd of wood-eating animals have been after it.

Every edge, every drawer has been gnawed away, as much as a quarter of an inch.

Yet one youngster, who died at the age of four, did all the gnawing.

Varnish Harmless
Battley said chemical analysis of the desk's varnish showed it was harmless.

"Anyway," he said, "any youngster who would eat that much wood would eat so many things it's impossible to tell what killed him."

Yet paint can be dangerous, and Battley wishes everyone understood that, now that the do-it-yourself craze is on.

Interior Paints Harmless
Generally speaking, interior paints are harmless, and Battley said toy manufacturers have for years made sure their paints would hurt no one.

But outside paint contains lead, a poison, and the fellow who happily slaps—or slaps—outside paint on baby's things could be asking for trouble.

"There's an easy way to tell what to use," Battley said. "Paints have been labeled since 1936. If it has one per cent or more lead in it, don't use it where the youngster can get to it."

The Usual Stuff
Battley is a father and a grandfather. Did he ever have any pica trouble?

"Oh, just the usual stuff. My oldest grandson was found with a mouthful of cigarette butts and old matches. And one Christmas the youngest tried to live on holly berries."

The chemical expert's conclusion: "No permanent harm done, but not recommended as a regular diet."

Sheppard Defense Balks On Jury OK

CLEVELAND (AP) — The state twice approved a full panel of jurors Wednesday at the murder trial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard, but the defense still was not satisfied.

Meanwhile the illness of one seated juror further slowed proceedings and court recessed for the night with a full jury near, but still not agreed upon.

The ailing juror was Thomas J. Soli, foreman of a railroad track gang. Repeated, severe bronchial coughing spells led him to ask Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin to excuse him. The judge consented.

The defense used three of its peremptory challenges during the day, and wound up with only one remaining.

Postal Clerk

Twice the state said it was satisfied with the panel as it stood. The last juror dismissed was Fred J. Brown, a Negro postal clerk. He hardly had had time to get settled in the jury box. He had been selected as a replacement for 26-year-old Dorothy E. Lee, who was dismissed by the defense.

William C. Lamb, a handsome construction superintendent with a fullback's build, was seated in Soli's place, and the defense then dismissed Brown with a peremptory challenge—that is, without giving any reason.

One Seat Vacant

The day ended with this one jury seat vacant, and with the defense still holding in reserve its final challenge. Defense lawyers declined to say whether they will use it.

Dr. Sheppard, 30, is accused of beating his 31-year-old wife to death July 4 in the bedroom of their lakefront home. Marilyn was four months pregnant with her second child.

The state claims the slaying followed an illicit romance between the handsome osteopath and a former technician in his hospital.

pretty Susan Hayes, 24. She is scheduled later as a star state witness.

Sheppard, in pleading innocent, claimed a 'bushy-haired intruder' killed his wife and knocked him out when he tried to aid her.

Tomorrow's Salesmen Will Determine How Fast City Will Grow—Researcher

The salesman of tomorrow will determine if and how fast a city will grow, declared a salesman with some 39 years' experience before 200 persons attending the final retail sales clinic of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

L. T. White, manager of business research and education for the Cities Service Oil Companies, explained that salesmen—those persons engaged in the distribution of goods—will assume professional status.

"Sales can be likened to the propelling force on a boat," said White. "A forward force is necessary."

As salesmen increase their efficiency—which in many cases could amount to 25 per cent—distribution will likewise increase. This will make for more employment, he explained.

Certificates for perfect attendance were presented to 67 persons, by Cecil Stanley, state supervisor of distributive education. Certificates were also given to 42 who only missed one session of the clinic.

The clinic was sponsored by the Lincoln Promotion Council of the Chamber of Commerce and the adult distributive education department of the Lincoln Public Schools.

Bride's Name Omitted

MADRID (INS) — For reasons of delicacy, or perhaps gallantry, Madrid newspapers omitted the name of the bride in this story. But they said she was out not only a husband—who failed to show up at the altar—but also a lavish wedding feast. Wedding guests ate, groom or no groom.

Putney Calls For Grass Roots Drive

Fred Putney of Lincoln, head of a citizens group interested in having Nebraska voters approve the eight proposed constitutional amendments on next Tuesday's ballot, warned Wednesday that lack of time and funds was hampering a full educational campaign and that voluntary grass roots work would have to be done if the importance of the amendments is to be fully emphasized.

"Under normal circumstances the cost of educating the voters on these amendments would be in excess of $50,000," he said. "It is our conclusion that no one group of taxpayers should be held responsible for raising this amount of money because the amendments will benefit all taxpayers."

While the constitutional amendment committee has taxed itself to the utmost to reach all of Nebraska's voters, "We know,"

Putney said, "that we have not been able to do a job equal to the scope and importance of the amendments."

"We are not in a position to make a smash effort the final week. Our campaign will be down to a few spot announcements. It is time for every informed voter in the precincts to help at the finish."

State Spent $100,000

Putney noted that the state has spent approximately $100,000 to publish the amendments according to law and that the Nebraska taxpayers had already spent $8,388 for a special legislative session at which some of the amendments were put on the ballot.

"We will not recover any of the money nor put an end to these important constitutional questions by allowing them to die for lack of interest or understanding," Putney said. "The questions will be there and will have to recur in probable succeeding referendums until the problems they represent are solved."

Putney said that several weekly and daily papers have generously given space to explanations of the amendments and that numerous farm, business and professional, statewide organizations, civic, endorsed the amendments and are informing their membership.

U.N. Actions Possibly Prevented World War III, Romulo Says

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

A series of successful United Nations' actions in avoiding disasters that were potential World War III causes were cited by Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, chairman of the Philippine delegation to the U.N.

Speaking at a University of Nebraska convocation, the former U.N. general assembly president cited U.N. intervention in Korea as one of the history making moves for peace made by the U.N. An intervention that Gen. Romulo said was "so misunderstood in the United States." An intervention, he added, that completely interrupted the Soviet timetable of conquest.

Destroy Defense Chain

This, he said, was the conquest of China, then Korea, Formosa, Australia, New Zealand and finally the Philippines to destroy the American Pacific chain of defense. This U.N. intervention in Korea, he asserted, prevented these Pacific nations from becoming puppet regimes of the Soviet Union such as are Poland, Romania, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

Along with this, the noted Asiatic statesman pointed to such U.N. achievements as the driving of Soviet troops out of Iran, lifting of the Berlin blockade, solving the Jewish-Israel problem and the handling of the Indonesia problem.

Behind The Scenes Work

And behind the scenes, Gen. Romulo asserted, there have been such U.N. achievements as work in El Salvador to lift the average life expectancy of 35 years that was in existence there. The general also cited the work of the U.N. children's emergency fund which has given milk to children in underprivileged nations who had never before tasted that food. Actually, he asserted, it would take all day to tell of the many economic and social advances made by the U.N. in countries throughout the world.

In addition to receiving the fall report of Chancellor A. Leland Forrest and conducting routine business, Board members will participate in homecoming activities on the campus including ground breaking ceremonies for a new men's residence hall.

George A. Knight of Lincoln is Board president.

Joe Cold, Indifferent

Marilyn Says She Offered To Give Up Film Career

HOLLYWOOD — Curvesome Marilyn Monroe was awarded a divorce from Joe DiMaggio Wednesday after she told the court her dream of connubial bliss turned into a nightmare of "coldness and indifference."

The nation's No. 1 pin-up queen sobbed and choked with emotion as she testified that she offered to give up her career to save her marriage. She added:

"I had hoped to have love and affection and understanding out of my marriage, but it was mostly coldness and indifference."

"My husband would get into moods where he wouldn't speak to me for days at a time—a week, sometimes longer, maybe 10 days."

"If I tried to coax him to talk to me, he wouldn't answer at all or he would say, 'Leave me alone! Stop nagging me!'"

Jerry Giesler, the wiggy actress' attorney, wanted to know if Marilyn had tried to make a success of her nine-month marriage to the former baseball great.

"Made Me Ill"

Marilyn nodded, dabbed at her eyes with a white hanky, and said:

"I certainly did. But his treatment of me made me ill and I was under the care of a physician quite a bit of the time."

"I even told him that I would give up my film career if that would please him."

DiMaggio, Marilyn related amid promptings by her attorney, did not like to have Marilyn's studio pals at their Beverly Hills home. She said:

"I managed to see some of my friends but Joe raised the roof and definitely did not like the idea."

"He refused to permit visitors to our home at all. On one occasion when he did allow someone to come to the house to see me when I was ill, it was a terrible strain."

Marilyn appeared to be on the verge of a breakdown during portions of her testimony, but the soothing voice of Giesler and a quick dab at her eyes with her handkerchief brought her around.

Her corroborating witness was her business manager, Mrs. Inez Melson. Mrs. Melson told Judge Orlando H. Rhodes:

"Mr. DiMaggio was very indifferent and not concerned with Mrs. DiMaggio's happiness. I have seen him push her away and tell her not to bother him."

Dressed in Black

The witness said the baseball player once admitted to her that he was cold and indifferent to the actress and that he regretted his actions.

Marilyn was late for her court date because of a milling crowd outside the courtroom when she showed up. She was dressed in traditional divorce court garb—

MARILYN MONROE

...granted divorce from DiMaggio

black, from head to toe, lightened only by a single strand of pearls around her neck.

She had to sit through two other divorce actions before hers was called. She listened patiently while the women in the preceding cases graphically told the court how their husbands beat them up.

When she emerged weeping from her courtroom ordeal, she refused to say anything at first. But she recovered her composure and said that she was glad it was all over and that she and Joe were still friends.

"You can also say," Marilyn said, "that I still don't know anything about baseball."

Joe has indicated that he is going "to sit on the fence awhile" when talk comes up about a possible third marriage.

Marilyn, however, stated that she hopes to marry again and to raise a family.

It was the second marriage for both. DiMaggio formerly was wed to actress-singer Dorothy Arnold and Marilyn was married at the age of 16 to James Dougherty, now a policeman in suburban Van Nuys.

Brady Derailment Damage $135,000

OMAHA (U)—The derailment of a tender and 27 cars of a 72-car Union Pacific freight train near Brady, Neb., Oct. 18 caused damage estimated at $135,000 a Union Pacific spokesman said Wednesday.

Traffic on the double line track was halted several hours while wrecking crews cleared one of the tracks.

The railroad said the cause was found to be a broken guide-yoke on the locomotive. This yoke or sleeve provides a guide or track for the side rods attached to the locomotive drive wheels.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. Is the number of letters 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6 add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Mrs. Stiff Says She Hit Red

MOSCOW (INS)—The wife of a U. S. Marine officer said Wednesday night she slapped a Russian and pushed another because her woman companion—the wife of a U. S. Embassy official—was being "manhandled" at a Moscow workers club.

Mrs. Frances Stiff, whose husband, Lieut. Col. Houston Stiff, is assistant naval attaché at the U. S. Embassy, said she had done the slapping and pushing at the workers' club where she and Mrs. Betty Jane Sommerlatte had gone to take pictures.

Mrs. Sommerlatte was blamed by the Russians for slapping and "rudely pushing" two workers at the club in a doorway incident as the American women were trying to leave.

According to the Russian version, the two women had gone to the club at the suggestion of a Russian citizen they met in a Moscow street. Noticing that they wanted to take pictures, the Russian suggested they visit his factory's nearby club where they would find "interesting data characterizing the life of the workers."

(The State Department in Washington, calling the Soviet version completely false, charged the American women were induced to visit the building by Soviet Secret

Police in plain clothes.
Mrs. Stiff said she went to the rescue of Mrs. Sommerlatte, a tall, 32-year-old blonde, when they were forcibly prevented from leaving the club.

Mrs. Sommerlatte is the wife of Karl Sommerlatte, second secretary of the U. S. Embassy.

U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, who has delivered a sharp protest to the Soviet government in connection with the latest Soviet-American incident, arranged to see Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Thursday.

Bohlen will try to get Molotov to reconsider the Soviet request that the wife of an American diplomat quit the country is unprecedented.

Radio Moscow, giving its version of the incident, at the workers' club, charged Mrs. Sommerlatte was guilty of "scandalous" behavior "unworthy of a civilized human being" because she allegedly slapped a Russian worker and "rudely pushed" another.

Defense Opens Testimony: 'Temporary Insanity At Times' Is Attributed To McClelland

Dr. Rex M. Strader, Lincoln psychiatrist, testifying as a defense witness in the McClelland murder trial, said in his opinion that the defendant has been at times temporarily insane.

At the time of his examination of Charles E. McClelland in October, Dr. Strader said he found McClelland to be sane, but to have a psychopathic personality.

McClelland in the examination told a past history of "severe headaches... head throbs... blurring vision," Dr. Strader said.

The psychiatrist told that spinal taps on McClelland in 1948 and last Oct. 4 revealed an abnormally high protein content, indicating in the examination that McClelland probably has an "organic brain lesion."

Dr. Strader testified that the defendant was capable of self-destruction and McClelland related a suicide attempt in the Colorado prison after writing a letter to the warden confessing to the murder of the Mays.

Told of 'Attack'
He told of suffering an "attack" while in the Douglas County (Omaha) jail while being questioned in regard to the May murders and later regained consciousness in the county hospital. (McClelland is serving a double-life term for the May murders).

On cross-examination by Wagner, Dr. Strader testified a finding of a lower protein content now than in 1947 could indicate an improvement in McClelland's condition, or could raise the possibility of a higher content after he had a "psychotic spell."

Dr. Gordon Filmer-Bennett, chief psychologist at the State Hospital (Lincoln) testified for the defense that McClelland has "high average ability... feels alone... sense of hopelessness... a depressive trend."
"It would not take much to push him to self-injury (suicide)," the psychologist said.

Questions Denied
Guard Oscar Beer denied questions of Defense Attorney Lyle Holland that McClelland had talked to the guard on April 16 about 10:45 a.m.

Inmate Clayton Millisbaugh testified he "couldn't remember" whether or not he saw McClelland talking to Beers. Wagner produced the inmate's affidavit taken Sept. 22 to the effect he (Millisbaugh) didn't see or speak to McClelland that morning.

First defense witness called was Inmate Joseph E. DeYonghe who testified he "confessed" to the Clausen murder because he wanted to get to District Court and prove his innocence.

DeYonghe said he made the confession because Warden Herbert Hann and others were constantly accusing him of the murder.

Denying participation in the murder, DeYonghe said he made a domino board with Clausen's permission about 4:24 a.m., finishing the board about 10:30 a.m., and then left the shop. "I left the shop as Leo Brown (inmate) came down," DeYonghe said. "I never went back."

Statement Read
Then Holland read DeYonghe's statement given April 21 to Dep. Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele to the jury. In the statement DeYonghe said he had hit Clausen over the head with an iron bar. At the time, he said, he "thought it was Hann."

DeYonghe said in the statement he then realized it was Clausen and that he then dragged him from the table... found a knife in his pocket... cut his throat while repeating "God damn Hann."
DeYonghe then picked up his domino board and went upstairs as Leo Brown came down, his statement read.

'Confused'
On cross-examination, DeYonghe testified he "was mentally confused" at the time of the statement and that he is now confined at the state hospital.

He described his mental condition as that of a "psychopath... without psychosis" and that he has "a split personality with a persecution complex."

(DeYonghe has also been charged with first-degree murder in the Clausen death.)

Inmate Charles M. Plumb, 62, testified that several inmates including McClelland, had a habit of making instant coffee in the cell block, but couldn't recall whether or not McClelland passed him a cup of coffee "about 11 a.m. on April 16." (The state testimony alleges McClelland used the hot water in the cell block to wash his hands.)

Notes Identified
Guard Lt. Ferdinand Reifschneider identified two letters or notes written by McClelland to prison officials.

A Jan. 10, 1954, note said in part, "I have told some awful crazy stories for a purpose... purpose to get transferred to the state hospital... figuring I could escape and make for the hills of Arkansas... (but) I want to straighten out and do my term as a life prisoner should."

In Oct. 16, 1953, note McClelland "confessed" to causing the death of (inmate) George Duncan by selling him "goof balls." McClelland relates "putting ant powder into capsules which I gave to Duncan" and "hearing that Duncan later died."

Brief Claims Dealers' Cars Not Under State
A brief filed in state Supreme Court Wednesday in a Box Butte County case contends that motor vehicles in dealers' hands on assessment day are not subject to valuations fixed by the State Board of Equalization.

"The county board of equalization is the only possible board of review" in such matters, the brief concludes.

Boyd Motor Co. of Alliance appealed after Box Butte County equalization board, in conformity with state board motor vehicle schedules, raised the dealer's assessment from $9,495 to $14,390.

Man Kills Self With Bomb Blast

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—An elderly man—despondent since a dynamite blast injury in 1950—detonated a dynamite bomb in his hands Wednesday and blew himself to pieces on the second floor of the Hidalgo County Courthouse here.

The explosion wrecked the second floor of the courthouse, tore marble slabs off the walls, broke windows on two floors and shook downtown Edinburg. The five-story courthouse costing 1½ million dollars was dedicated only last summer.

Several hundred persons were in the building at the time of the explosion at 10:04 a.m. Two women suffered severe shock. Minor cuts and bruises were reported to other persons.

The man was Harry Miller, about 60, of Realitos, Tex. He was an oilfield worker who was in court Wednesday for a decision on his suit for damages from injuries received in a dynamite explosion in September, 1950.

Miller had taken an elevator to the second floor of the courthouse, gone for a moment into the 92nd District courtroom and then walked into the hall where he stood before a mirror beside the elevator and detonated the blast.

The elevator girl, Dinora Carrejo, about 22, had gone back downstairs. She heard the blast, went back to the second floor, opened her door and there saw the man's decapitated head in front of her. She fainted, later awoke screaming and went into severe shock.
